Argument Ends In Fatal Shooting In Wampum District

Man Who Admits Shooting Is Held In County Jail

Frank Mazzone Gives Self Up At Sheriff's Office After Shooting

MIKE MILICHOVICH IS BULLET VICTIM

Fatal Encounter Occurs Shortly Before Noon Near Mazzone's Home

Mike Milichovich, 39, a resident of Crescentdale, near Wampum, was shot to death today shortly before noon allegedly by Frank Mazzone, 40, a neighbor. Mazzone gave himself up at Sheriff M. M. Ingham's office a short time later and is being held in the county jail pending a preliminary hearing on a charge of murder.

The shooting occurred at about 11 o'clock near Mazzone's home in Crescentdale. The dead man was hit by six 25 calibre bullets from an automatic revolver, it is said. He died in the Beaver Falls hospital.

Had An Argument

Immediately after the shooting Mazzone asked Joe Miller to drive him to New Castle and arriving at the sheriff's office Mazzone walked in and gave himself up, officers say. Deputy John Steinbrink looked him up and a few minutes later District Attorney John C. Lamoree and Paul A. Welsh interviewed him.

Briefly, Mazzone's story is this, the officials say. He is married, is a WPA worker and resides in Crescentdale. He plays a guitar and a neighbor of his, Wingo Dakovich, (Continued On Page Two)

Confused Story Of Girl Appears Only Clue In Hunt For Three Alleged Abductors

(International News Service)

WASHINGTON, Dec. 3.—Only the somewhat confused story of the victim provided police with clues today as they intensified their search for the men who allegedly kidnapped Mary Brown, 18 year old high school student, on Wednesday, and released her 36 hours later near her home, District of Columbia and Maryland police were combing the vicinity of Miss Brown's home, searching for a shack where she said she was held by her kidnapers for some hours. But Maryland State Police Superintendent Elmer F. Munshower said there was nothing to indicate a solution to the crime.

Told Hysterical Story

Miss Brown meanwhile partially recovered from her ordeal, which ended when she staggered into her home Thursday night with clothes in tatters, and told a hysterical story of being kidnapped by three men in a light truck on Wednesday. The story of her fifteen year old sister Lucy coincided generally with Mary's recital, police said, but there (Continued On Page Two)

Find Young Girl Stabbed To Death In Pittsburgh Lot

Police Seek To Establish Identity Of Victim Of Brutal Murder

RESTAURANT SLIP MAY GIVE IDENTITY

Girl Had Been Slashed And Stabbed Many Times Police Report

(BULLETIN)

(International News Service)

PITTSBURGH, Dec. 3.—Horribly slashed and stabbed more than 50 times in the face and body, a young girl, about 22 or 23 years old, was found murdered today in a vacant lot on the Northside of Pittsburgh.

Several hours after the body was discovered by men crossing the lot on their way to work, police had not yet established her identity. They were attempting to identify her through a restaurant slip found near the body. The slip, marked "guest check," bore the pencilled name of a man on the back.

Put Up Battle

The trampled ground and her dishevelled clothing indicated the girl put up a terrific fight. A sharp knife or a stiletto was used, police said. The body lay on a cinder pathway, sprawled on the back. Part of the clothing was ripped. The face was deeply slashed at least a half dozen times. Some of the cuts were as long as six inches. The deepest gash was in the chest. There were dozens of stab wounds on the abdomen, thighs and arms.

Three feet from the body was found one of the victim's shoes. The woman was dressed in a black skirt with a brick red woolen sweater, a (Continued On Page Two)

Officials Report Robert Bready Admits Killing Father, M. E. Minister

FATHER IS SHOT DURING SCUFFLE

Son Had Been Confined To State Hospital In Toledo In October, 1936, For Alcoholism

(BULLETIN)

(International News Service)

CHILICOTHE, O., Dec. 3.—Robert Bready, 29, who once fought with the Loyalists in Spain, was charged today with first degree murder in the fatal shooting of his father, the Rev. Russell H. Bready, 62, a Methodist minister.

CHILICOTHE, O., Dec. 3.—Murder charges were expected to be filed today against Robert Bready, 29-year-old soldier of fortune who late last night confessed the slaying of his father, Rev. Russell H. Bready, Methodist Episcopal minister at Bainbridge.

"I shot him during a scuffle as he walked me around the streets trying to sober me up," Ross County Sheriff Joseph Vincent quoted young Bready as saying.

The son was taken into custody yesterday a few hours after his father's body was found lying on a sidewalk. A bullet, lodged in Reverend Bready's left temple caused his death.

Found at the parsonage lying in bed in a drunken stupor, young Bready was taken to the Ross county jail at Chillicothe. An automatic pistol of the same calibre as the fatal bullet was found under the minister's son's pillow.

Admits Slaying

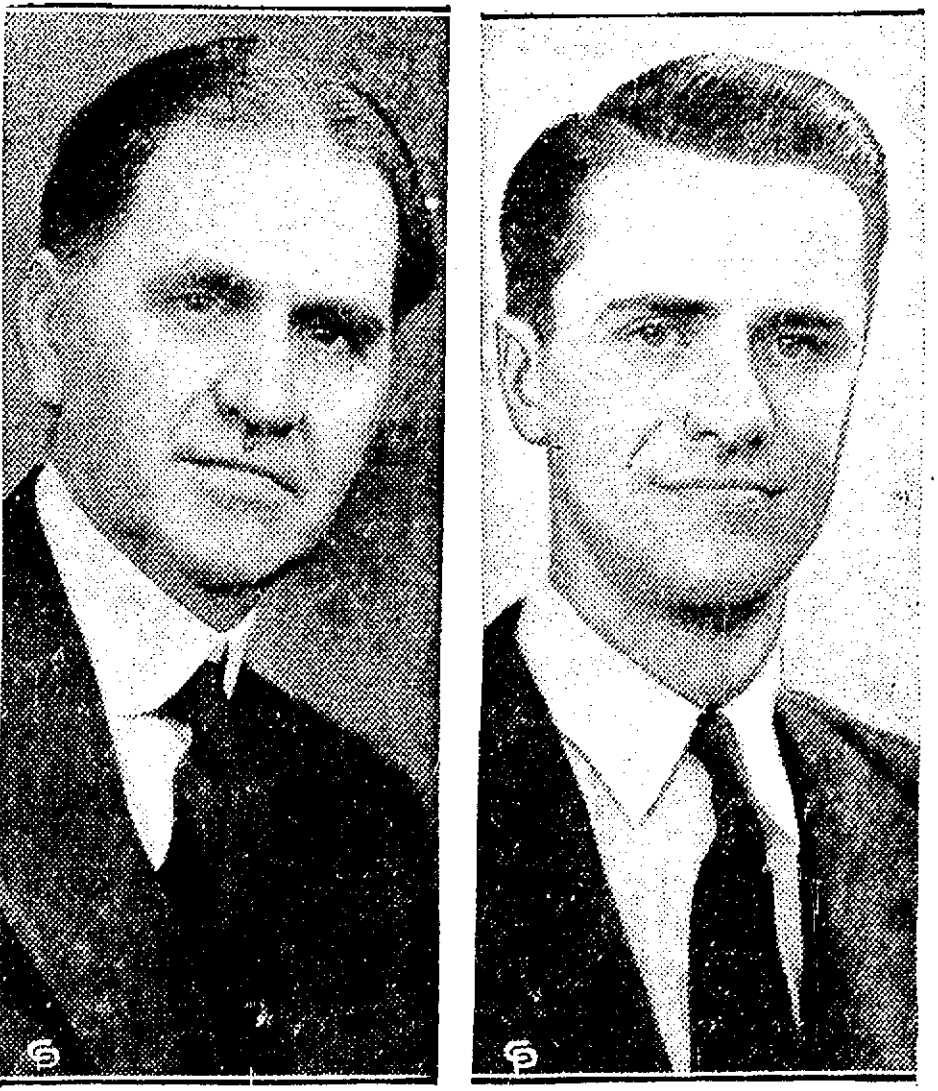

It was only after Bready, who had just returned from service in the Spanish civil war with the Abraham Lincoln Loyalist brigade, sobered, Sheriff Vincent said, that officials were able to talk to him.

Ross County Prosecutor Leslie S. Reid said a first degree murder warrant would be filed in Justice of the Peace Sam Briggs' court at Bainbridge early today.

"In answer to my direct question," Reid said, "young Bready admitted killing his father."

"He was still a bit hazy on details of the slaying, but admitted re- (Continued On Page Two)

Here are the slain Dr. Russell H. Bready, 62-year-old Methodist Episcopal minister of Chillicothe, O., and his son, Robert, 27, who is held for his father's murder. According to Sheriff Joseph Vincent of Ross county, Robert confessed shooting to death his father as Dr. Bready was taking him for a walk to "sober me up." Young Bready, who is divorced, said he served 20 days with the Abraham Lincoln brigade, fighting for the Loyalist forces in Spain. The slain pastor once was mayor pro-tem of Pontiac, Mich.

Liner Normandie Sailing Delayed By French Strike

Officials Expect Giant Liner Will Sail For New York Tomorrow

FRENCH MARITIME STRIKE IS CALLED

Premier Daladier Moves To Smash Walkout At La Havre Speedily

By KENNETH T. DOWNS

(International News Service Staff Correspondent)

PARIS, Dec. 3.—Two thousand members of the crew of the giant French liner Normandie held a strike meeting today as Premier Edouard Daladier's government sought to smash a general French line labor walkout called by French maritime labor leaders at Le Havre.

Authorities said it would be impossible for the Normandie, which had been scheduled to sail earlier today, to depart for New York tonight, as had been hoped. They anticipated, however, that the vessel would sail tomorrow.

Protest Economic Decrees

The strike was called at Le Havre, vital French port, in protest against the government's economic decrees. Merchant marine quarters feared that if it was not broken, it would spread to all French shipping companies and all ports. They admitted that already the seamen's strike at Bordeaux is almost complete.

The 2,000 Normandie crew members met in Franklin hall at Le Havre, where they were addressed by secretary general De Chedeville of the maritime syndicate at Le Havre.

After the meeting, as excitement and confusion in the port mounted swiftly to grave proportions, 25 plainclothes policemen tried to arrest De Chedeville but his bodyguard of 100 strongarm men swept the police aside in a brief, furious fight.

PA NEW OBSERVES

One of the unusual mineral deposits of Lawrence county is to be found at Philaski, where there is an "umber" mine. The mine has been operated for years and is said to be good for many more. It is the only mineral of the kind in this section of the county, and has long been a marvel to mineralogists. The umber, in appearance, resembles iron ore, but it is chemically different. It is used largely in manufacturing mineral paint for iron work.

Some curious things happen in this world. Over in Butler hospital, one day this week, John Hay had an eye removed, the optic having been injured during a spike, which was being driven by him, spun and struck him. The curious feature is that on the same day, in the same hospital Joseph P. Narishaw, had an eye removed, which had been injured 25 years ago, when it was struck by a spike he was driving. He had suffered from the injury ever since.

Daniel Keely, West Washington street, bagged a doe while on a hunting trip to Venango county. He was accompanied by his father, Roy Keely.

Probably more New Castle women have been cooking deer meat during the past week than was ever known in the history of the city. The scores of hunters who have brought back does have been generous with their neighbors, many of whom had to ask for instructions in cooking. Some claim that deer meat tastes better if it is soaked in salt water for several hours, others that soaking it in water in which a little vinegar has (Continued On Page Two)

Senator Davis Says Britain Is 'Joyful' Over Trade Treaty

By ARTHUR HACHTEN

(International News Service Staff Correspondent)

WASHINGTON, Dec. 3.—Three Republican senators announced today that they have joined the senate minority supporting legislation to give congress veto power over reciprocal trade treaties, negotiated under existing law by the president.

One of the trio, Sen. James J. Davis of Pennsylvania, called the new British-American trade treaty a "Santa Claus" pact, in which he said this country handed over tremendous advantages to Great Britain.

Governor Renames Those Rejected By Senate At Closing Session

EARLE DEPARTING ON TRIP TO FRANCE

(International News Service)

HARRISBURG, Dec. 3.—Gov. George H. Earle, enroute to France today for a three-week holiday, appointed a new employment board in the department of public assistance, named three Philadelphia municipal judges to fill vacancies, and re-appointed scores of others to boards and commissions, just prior to his departure.

Those named to the various boards and commissions were largely appointees whose appointments were unconfirmed by the senate last week.

Named to the employment board were Miss Julia M. Kernan, Pittsburgh; Calvin J. Friedberg, Pottsville, and Walter Pytko, Philadelphia, the latter until Wednesday midnight a state senator. They succeeded Shippin Lewis, chairman, Philadelphia; Mrs. Susan Fouze, Pittsburgh, and Hugh Dolan, Pottsville, who were unanimously rejected by the senate last week.

Members of the employment board receive $25 a day when they serve.

The new Philadelphia judges: Edward Shmidheiser, Felix Piekarski and Adrian Bonnelly, the latter a former deputy attorney general.

Included among the reappointments were the 67 county assistance boards. To the Delaware river joint commission to replace Thomas B. Smith and Richard Weglein, removed by legislative action, were James P. Clarke and George G. Moade, Philadelphia.

Appointed to the state board of undertakers was Frank M. Regan, Scranton, to succeed David H. Woodward, whose term expired.

Elks Will Honor Memory Of Dead

'Lodge Of Sorrow' Will Be Held Sunday; Hess Will Speak

DEATH THIS YEAR ERASED SIX NAMES

Tribute to the memory of six departed brothers—one of whom died early this week—will be paid by members of the New Castle Elks lodge in their annual "lodge of sorrow" service at the Elks club Sunday evening at 8 o'clock.

The public will join with the lodge for the ceremonies. It is customary for every Elks lodge to honor its dead on the first Sunday of each December.

Own Member To Speak

Speaking Sunday night will be C. W. Herman Hess, past district deputy grand exalted ruler, and a member of the local lodge. His subject will be "Our Absent Brothers."

Quartet numbers and orchestra numbers will mark the service.

To be honored are the six members who have died since the 1937 service was held. One of them, Samuel S. Hamilton, prominent merchant here for years, died November 28. Another, W. T. Butz, (Continued On Page Two)

New Restrictions In Berlin Announced

By PIERRE J. HUSS

(International News Service Staff Correspondent)

BERLIN, Dec. 3.—New regulations, limiting Jews to certain districts of Berlin and sharply restricting their activities, were announced by the police president today.

The northern and central districts of the city were assigned to Jews as residential areas. They were forbidden to appear on some of the city's most famous principal streets.

The orders, which constituted the first major step toward placing German Jews in ghettos, banned them from all theatres, motion picture houses, concert halls and museums. They were forbidden to appear in the Deutschland Halle, the huge sports palace or at the Reich sport field.

Similarly they were banned from all public and private bathing resorts or from the square of the national war shrine.

The regulations also banned Jews from the Wilhelmstrasse between the Leipzigerstrasse and the Unter Den Linden.

County Heiltdorf, the police chief, proclaimed:

"Effective Dec. 6, Jews of German citizenship or those who are stateless must not use streets, squares, parks or buildings on which the ban is proclaimed.

"Jews found in prohibited areas or institutions after Dec. 6 will be punished. Jews living in banned areas must obtain special permits."

Areas to which the ban applies include the Olympic stadium and all athletic training grounds.

County Heiltdorf's statement also stipulated:

"Jews are forbidden to walk or drive cars in prescribed places. Further decrees will be proclaimed shortly."

It was learned the anti-Jewish ban later will be extended to the Kurfuertendamm, the Friedrichstrasse, the entire Unter Den Linden and all other main thoroughfares in the capital.

President Plans Another Speech

Will Speak At University Of North Carolina On Monday

MAY TALK ABOUT RACIAL PERSECUTION

By GEORGE DUNNO

(International News Service Staff Correspondent)

WARM SPRINGS, Ga., Dec. 3.—Nearing the end of his annual Thanksgiving vacation here, President Roosevelt turned his attention today to completion of the speech he will deliver at the University of North Carolina on Monday.

Although the president refused to make known any details of the address, which will be sent out over a national radio hook-up, a general impression prevailed in Warm Springs that he would take advantage of the opportunity again to criticize racial religious persecution abroad.

When the president addresses his Chapel Hill audience on Monday afternoon, he will have his first opportunity of addressing the nation on the subject of foreign affairs since his recent conference with High Wilson, American ambassador to Berlin, and William Phillips, American ambassador to Rome.

Silent On Discussions

The president's refusal to discuss his talks with the ambassadors to the principal European dictatorships emphasized to observers the likelihood that he might delineate in clearer terms on Monday the administration's attitude toward the trend of events in foreign authoritarian states.

Mr. Roosevelt, meanwhile, embraced the Olive branch extended by Georgia state officials who visited with him at the Little White House today. At an open air press conference immediately after his talk with (Continued On Page Two)

French-Italian Tension Grows

Diplomatic Protest To Rome Causes Tension Increase Between Nations

(International News Service)

PARIS, Dec. 3.—Tension between France and Italy increased rapidly today following the French diplomatic protest to Rome against Italian land demands and Virginia Gayda's assertion in the Giornale d'Italia that Italy is "ready if necessary to march even against France."

Anti-Italian demonstrations were reported in Corsica, one of the French possessions upon which the Fascist regime of Premier Mussolini has turned covetous eyes.

International News Service learned that France will bluntly demand from German Foreign Minister von Ribbentrop, when he arrives here shortly, an exact statement on Germany's position regarding the Franco-Italian dispute.

If his response is unsatisfactory, it was revealed, prospects of accords between France and Germany and France and Italy will be "stinted."

Mass Funeral Plan For Bus Victims Is Rejected By Parents

Arrange Private Funeral For 22 Youngsters, Four Still In Critical Shape

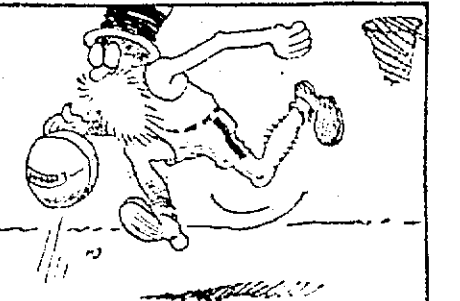

(International News Service)

SALT LAKE CITY, Utah, Dec. 3.—The mystery of why the driver of a school bus carrying more than 40 children pulled onto the railroad tracks in front of a speeding train, which killed 22 children and the driver himself, will be investigated by Interstate Commerce Commission examiners arriving today.

Meanwhile, sorrowful parents of the children completed arrangements for private funerals. Suggestions that a mass funeral for the victims be held in the Mormon Temple were turned down. The victims all were children of Latter Day Saints farmers.

Four of the 16 injured students still are in critical condition, hospital attaches reported.

Britain May Appeal For France

Disturbed By Italian Stand

May Attempt To Induce Mussolini To Soften Attitude

FRANCE DEMANDS ITALY EXPLAIN

LONDON, Dec. 3.—The British government today considered the possibility of bringing pressure upon Premier Mussolini to adopt a more friendly attitude toward France.

Disturbed by the growing territorial crisis between Rome and Paris, British Foreign Secretary Viscount Halifax contemplated instructing Lord Perth, British ambassador in Rome, to attempt to induce the Fascist government to soften its attitude.

Whitehall circles expressed fears that if the French government should withdraw Ambassador Andre Francois-Poncet from Rome, British Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain's European appeasement policy might be compromised still further by Italy. Recent developments in Germany already have dealt it a series of severe blows.

An indication of how the wind is blowing was provided by Venturi, well known commentator, who reported in the London News Chronicle that leftist circles in Britain already are questioning whether Chamberlain will be able to make his proposed January trip to Rome. Some circles believe the situation now developing may make such a visit out of the question.

Apprehension over the situation grew here after French Ambassador Charles Corbin called upon the British foreign office and notified the British government that the French ambassador at Rome had been instructed to demand an explanation of Italian attacks upon France regarding Tunisia, and other French controlled areas.

If the Italian explanation is not satisfactory, it was learned, the French government has considered taking further diplomatic steps.

membering fighting with his father. "He has killed him," he told questioners.

Bready remembered carrying a gun all day. Reid declared, and had only faint recollections of details of the crime.

"He expressed the hope that his father died instantly and didn't suffer," the prosecutor said. "When he was assured he did, his mind seemed to be relieved."

Liquor Is Blamed

At one time during the lengthy grilling, the former Spanish Loyalist soldier said there "should be an island for people like me who can't take liquor."

Officials expressed the belief he was "so drunk he could remember only highlights of events."

Young Bready, officers learned, was confined to the Toledo State hospital for the insane in October, 1936, for alcoholism. His father obtained his release after he had been in the hospital two months.

Officers said young Bready was divorced from his wife who lives in Cincinnati. His five-year-old daughter is with his former wife.

The elder Bready, who was minister of fashionable Rocky Fork parish, was a gifted orator and loved by his parishioners.

Apparently, neighbors said, the minister had made every effort to straighten out his wayward son. The minister man heartily disapproved of liquor, being a dry leader. The night before the elder Bready's body was found, his son was seen in a Brainbridge establishment buying apple wine. Besides the wine it was learned that Robert had consumed a quantity of rubbing alcohol.

LINER NORMANDIE SAILING DELAYED BY FRENCH STRIKE

a huge automobile bearing no license plates and sped away.

Americans Affected
With the Normandie's sailing delayed, 247 American members of Spain's international brigade, who had been planning to sail home aboard the vessel, camped four miles outside of Havre.

To meet the situation, Daladier enforced the requisitioning of French steamships. This move put maritime workers under compulsion to remain at work or face dismissal and other penalties.

Authorities explained that Daladier did not issue a new requisition order but acted under the order he issued November 28 to break the nation-wide general strike called by the French Confederation of Labor, but which proved a fiasco.

That order, putting all public services on a war-time basis, will remain effective until it is formally withdrawn by means of a government decree. It was stated Daladier intended to keep it in force until all labor troubles in France have been cleared up.

Arrests Ordered

Minister of marine De Chappedelaine ordered the arrest of secretary general Chedeville of the maritime syndicate at Le Havre and of his assistant, M. Lajoie.

Shortly after police launched a search for the two men Lajoie was taken into custody. Both he and Chedeville are liable to five years imprisonment if convicted of causing labor outbreaks.

Meanwhile, amid scenes of mounting confusion and excitement, workers at Le Havre early this morning voted on the position they would adopt with regard to the strike call.

Result of the vote was not announced.

Reports from Le Havre told of a "spirit of revolt" developing among French maritime workers there against their labor leaders.

Several of the workers were quoted as stating: "We do not know how they will announce the result of the vote, but we know that it is 80 per cent in favor of work."

"We want to work. We will have to change leaders. They are misleading us. They are taking the bread out of our mouths."

In accordance with the requisition order enforced by the government to break the strike, the chief of the government maritime bureau took charge of the situation. The government's action required seamen to continue at their jobs on pain of drastic penalties.

From the way tax liens against vacant lots are being filed, the court house, it would look as though much of the county are likely to be sold.

Especially is this true in the outlying districts. Valuations were placed on lots at a time when real estate was booming, and they have never been reduced to any great extent. As there is practically no demand for vacant lots at the present time and little immediate prospect of increased value, many owners who own them, have quit paying altogether.

The county already has a large number of these lots that were taken for taxes and will get many more as soon as there is a tax sale.

In these days of mass action it is not surprising to note that a "Go-to-church" drive is being inaugurated in Beaver Falls, probably on the theory that if people won't go to church individually they will go collectively. The drive is to begin tomorrow. It is sponsored by a committee of Sabbath school superintendents and is non-sectarian and non-denominational. Advertising and personal solicitation will be employed and it is hoped to increase the attendance in all churches of the city. Support has been given the movement by Protestant, Catholic and Jewish clergymen.

We have recently had two new issues of postage stamps and now we are to have a third in the shape of 30 and 50-cent stamps. The 30-cent stamps will bear the likeness of Theodore Roosevelt and the 50-cent stamps that of William H. Taft, both former presidents. The Roosevelt stamps will be printed in blue and the Taft in lavender. They will be issued about December 8.

During the trial of a desertion and non-support case in Beaver county, in which the WPA figured, Judge Henry H. Wilson observed, "This relief, federal, state and county, is more of a mystery to me than the religion of ancient Egypt. There are many others who think the same way. They just can't make head or tail of it. In the case before the court the man was working on the WPA, supposedly to earn money to support his family, but the family was not getting it."

Kenneth Campbell, of North Lee avenue, David Bevan, of Lee avenue, and Ray Kluse, of East Washington street, have returned home from a hunting trip in the vicinity of Henderson in Venango county. Mr. Campbell was the only successful one. He bagged a doe, which tipped the scales at 150 pounds.

James DeGennaro, Fairmont avenue, brought back a good sized doe from his hunting trip.

The game warden, to whom he reported the matter, ordered him to pay the fine.

Eugene Roush, of Edenburg, J. W. Keller and George W. Haine, of Waimo, and Herbert Dickey of New Castle, returned home Friday, from a hunting trip near Franklin, each with a deer.

Three Union township residents, returning from Forest county Friday night, reported shooting deer. They were Ed Hanna, Round street; Henry Huff, English avenue, and Clifford Rowland, King avenue.

Deaths of the Day

John L. Leslie, aged 70 years, of 810 Croton avenue died of pneumonia in the Jameson Memorial hospital at 10:25 o'clock Friday night. He had been ill but two weeks.

Mr. Leslie was born in North Beaver township April 25, 1868. His wife, Margaret McConaghy Leslie, preceded him in death about four years ago.

Surviving him are four brothers, three of them residents of New Castle and one a resident of North Beaver township. They are A. Sharp Leslie, H. F. Leslie and G. E. Leslie, all of this city, and W. V. Leslie, North Beaver township.

Funeral services will be held from Mr. Leslie's residence at 810 Croton avenue, on Monday at 2 p. m. Officiating will be Dr. Charles B. Wingard, pastor of Central Presbyterian church, of which he was a member.

Burial will be in Oak Park cemetery.

Alvin Timblin.

Alvin Timblin, aged 72 years, of 206 Smithfield street was pronounced dead this morning at about 9:30 o'clock, upon admittance to the Jameson Memorial hospital.

Mr. Timblin's illness and death were quite sudden. He had been in his usual health until last night. This morning he was removed to the hospital and had succumbed before arriving there.

Mr. Timblin was born at Euclid, Butler county, on April 13, 1866, son of William and Margaret Jones Timblin. He came to New Castle from Butler county 20 years ago, and had lived here ever since, a carpenter by trade. He was a member of the First Presbyterian church and the McKinney Bible class, and attended regularly.

His wife, Florence Mathews Timblin; three children, Claude of Youngstown, O. Mrs. H. Berlin Smith of Ellwood City and Grace Timblin at home; one granddaughter, Virginia of Youngstown; one sister, Mrs. Margaret Logan of Jamestown, N. Y., and one brother, Rev. treaties. Senator Key Pittman (D., Nevada), president of the Senate, and a small group of fellow Democrats already are lined up in the ranks of those opposing the present trade treaty law.

Britain Joyful
Davis has just returned from a trip to Europe, and said he found Great Britain "joyful" over terms of the trade agreement. President Roosevelt and Secretary of State Hull have just negotiated with that country.

"I told persons over there that Santa Claus had been good to them at the expense of the people of the United States," Davis said.

Borah and Nye agreed with Davis that the trade agreements on the whole have worked to the disadvantage of American producers. Though the act giving President Roosevelt power to make these treaties does not expire until 1940, the three senators said they would eagerly vote for repeal, or an amendment requiring the pact to be submitted to congress for ratification.

"Congress is the tariff-making power under our system of government and we should not delegate this tremendous power to any one," Davis said.

Deaths of the Day

John L. Leslie, aged 70 years, of 810 Croton avenue died of pneumonia in the Jameson Memorial hospital at 10:25 o'clock Friday night. He had been ill but two weeks.

Mr. Leslie was born in North Beaver township April 25, 1868. His wife, Margaret McConaghy Leslie, preceded him in death about four years ago.

Surviving him are four brothers, three of them residents of New Castle and one a resident of North Beaver township. They are A. Sharp Leslie, H. F. Leslie and G. E. Leslie, all of this city, and W. V. Leslie, North Beaver township.

Funeral services will be held from Mr. Leslie's residence at 810 Croton avenue, on Monday at 2 p. m. Officiating will be Dr. Charles B. Wingard, pastor of Central Presbyterian church, of which he was a member.

Burial will be in Oak Park cemetery.

Alvin Timblin.

Alvin Timblin, aged 72 years, of 206 Smithfield street was pronounced dead this morning at about 9:30 o'clock, upon admittance to the Jameson Memorial hospital.

Mr. Timblin's illness and death were quite sudden. He had been in his usual health until last night. This morning he was removed to the hospital and had succumbed before arriving there.

Mr. Timblin was born at Euclid, Butler county, on April 13, 1866, son of William and Margaret Jones Timblin. He came to New Castle from Butler county 20 years ago, and had lived here ever since, a carpenter by trade. He was a member of the First Presbyterian church and the McKinney Bible class, and attended regularly.

His wife, Florence Mathews Timblin; three children, Claude of Youngstown, O. Mrs. H. Berlin Smith of Ellwood City and Grace Timblin at home; one granddaughter, Virginia of Youngstown; one sister, Mrs. Margaret Logan of Jamestown, N. Y., and one brother, Rev. George Timblin of Euclid, Butler county, survive.

Services will take place Monday at 2 p. m. in the R. L. Boyd funeral home, North Jefferson street, with Dr. J. J. McViney, pastor of the First Presbyterian church, in charge. Interment will be in Oak Park cemetery.

The Parent Problem

By Garry C. Myers, Ph. D.

SUCCESS IN MARRIAGE

PARENTS who have lived a fairly happy married life will rather heartily agree with the following discussion by three unmarried specialists in their book on the growth and development of the young child. These young women are Winifred Rand, Mary E. Sweeney and E. Lee Vincent, all of a prominent school in Detroit. Under these able experts have studied specialists in parent education from all parts of the world.

Since these authors look at the problem as scientific observers in a wholly objective manner, their remarks challenge our thoughtful consideration. To quote:

"Marriages which are successful do not end in divorce, for divorce is an acknowledgment of failure. Anything that is done to make marriage a success will therefore reduce the number of divorces. It is interesting to note that the usual attitude of any one starting upon a life career is that he is determined to make a success of it. Failure in it is likely to be considered something of a disgrace, and one hesitates to acknowledge failure in a career until one has made a mighty effort to achieve success.

Attitude Not Same

"One does not find the same attitude prevalent toward the career of marriage. Groves says, 'It has become characteristic of our time not only to enter marriage under the spell of pleasure motives, but also to retreat from it just as soon as it ceases to advance happiness.' This attitude toward marriage is the inevitable result of the claim on the part of the individual for a right to happiness, without a realization of the individual's responsibility to attain that happiness through his own striving toward a goal.

"There is today little, if any, feeling of disgrace when one has failed in marriage. The divorce after all is not the disgrace it used to be considered. One may call that a frank acknowledgment of failure. The disgrace dies rather in the fact that two grown people who, in this age, are supposed to have received at least a fair amount of education, have entered upon marriage without preparation or without having developed within them an attitude toward marriage which would insure a chance, at least, of success.

"Marriage is such a personal affair, so dependent for success on the adjustment sexually, emotionally, intellectually, and, one may say, practically (for everyday living together assumes a very practical and of oftentimes humdrum aspect), that it is no easy matter to attain success. Certainly success will not be obtained without definitely striving for it."

The World AND THE Mud Puddles

ALWAYS

There is much talk and there has been much talk about money in politics. In fact, there has always been money in politics.

Sir Robert Walpole, when prime minister of England, at one session of parliament wanted to carry a question in the House of Commons. He knew there would be quite a bit of opposition, and as he passed through the Court of Requests met a member whose avarice he imagined could not reject a large bribe. Calling him aside, he said:

"Such a question comes up today and here is a bank note for two thousand pounds."

The member looked at him and said: "Sir Robert, you have lately served some of my particular friends and when my wife was last at court, the king was very gracious to her, which must have been at your instigation. I should therefore think myself very ungrateful," said he, putting the note in his purse, "if I were to refuse the favor you are now pleased to ask me."

Two thousand pounds—ten thousand dollars in the days of Walpole, was a very tidy sum of money.

Mrs. Tyndale—But my dear, I didn't know you could drive.

Mrs. Popplestone—Well, I drove him into buying it.

Wise folks are doing their Christmas buying now. At least they are not waiting until a day or two before Christmas before ordering.

Christmas Seals! How about the bunch you had sent to you? Are you going to send in the money for them? The money is for a great work and may be the means of keeping you from getting tuberculosis.

A remnant is either the wrong color or else there isn't enough.

FOND MEMORIES OF A BANQUET

The midnight ride of Paul Revere. So long a wondrous story. Was nothing to the rides we take without a bit of glory.

We mount our mare at midnight And speed with no effort at all, To mountain tops and meadows— We never seem to fall.

Sometimes we're on a railroad track The engine just advancing, Where we cannot move a hand or foot;

Just a feeling numb, entrancing, But in these thrilling rides we take We never reach our destination; For our family grabs us off the mare.

With a scornful "Indigestion!"

Reader's Questions Answered

Dear Miss Market—My bridal lines were marked with my maiden initial. But I have been married for some time and wish to replenish my stock. How should they be marked now?

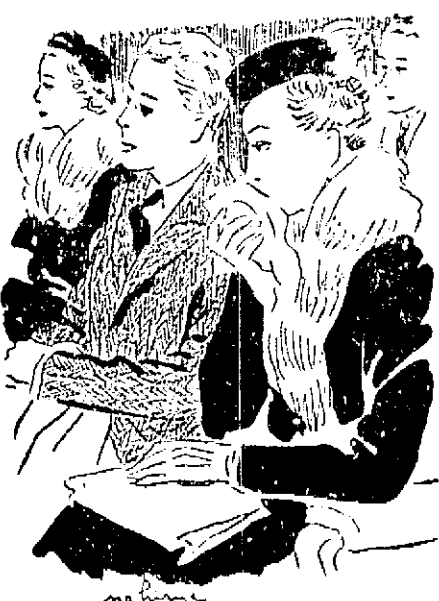

C. C. Answer—Before marriage the bride's lines are usually marked with her maiden initial, although some modern brides mark their bridal lines with their future husband's initial. However, after marriage the initial of your married surname should be marked on both lines and silver.

Cherry Trees May Be Saved
 Looks Like Women Win Fight
 Washingtonians Have No Vote

By CHARLES P. STEWART

Central Press Columnist.
 WASHINGTON, D. C., Dec. 3.—

Publisher Eleanor Patterson of the Washington Herald and Times looks like having won her fight in defense of the capital's Japanese cherry trees (and a lot of elms and other arboreal species) against the vandals who want the ground that these groves flourish on, to make room for the proposed Thomas Jefferson memorial—planned as a monstrous structure, costing millions and sprawling over an area equivalent to several city blocks. Nobody denies that Jefferson is entitled to a memorial, but plenty of Washingtonians contend that lots of places are available to put it in without spoiling one of the world's loveliest parks for its accommodation.

Vandalism runs rampant in this town anyway, for the simple reason that its townfolk have no voice in the regulation of their local affairs.

For example, Central Park in New York or Lincoln Park in Chicago couldn't imaginably be half dug up and laid waste for a memorial to Boss Tweed or Carter Harrison, because their boards of aldermen promptly would voice such suggestions down.

They Have No Vote

Washingtonians, however, have no votes. Let some congressman, who has no eye of his own for beauty, think up a scheme for mutilating the city, and the chances are that he'll be able to jam it through. His fellow members want to be accommodating, very few of their constituents ever have been here (so it doesn't mean anything to them), and the measure adopted, let native Washingtonians sell as they may.

When I first saw Washington in early 1915 its streets were perfectly heavenly. Even in the business district they were tree-lined, branches arching over the thoroughfares. Horse-drawn phaetons negotiated them. It was slowly urban, yet artistically rural—ideal.

I left and came back after a term of years.

Meanwhile the automobile had got in its dirty work. Autoists wanted wider streets, to search in, to park in, to kick pedestrians in more conveniently. To broaden the streets, sidewalks had to be narrowed. The narrow sidewalks it had been necessary to amputate curb-line trees. The business section no longer was shaded. It was as sun-scoured as Broadway.

This devastation has proceeded into the outskirts and still is going on—spreading.

Sixteenth street (the "Avenue of the Presidents") is tree-arched from end to end. A line of double-decker buses wanted to traverse it. It was obvious that the upper-deck passengers would be scraped off. Accordingly it was proposed to have the trees trimmed off on their streetward sides, leaving parallel rows of half trees—trees on one side, nothing on the other side. Gosh! It hasn't been done yet, but it still is contemplated.

Historic Buildings Down

Yank buildings down—janked down remorselessly.

Across the street from the capital grounds was an old structure in which congress met after the British had burned the original capitol during the War of 1812. Wouldn't one think that that was worth preservation? Not at all. It was razed to make room for the new Supreme Court building. The Women's National Party had occupied it. It had to move out and old residence to another corner. Presently Uncle Sam vacated this other building, for the General Accounting office.

Thereupon the Women's National Party sent a committee to see the congressional committee on the job.

"If you fellows make us move again," said the committee women, "heaven help you at the next election."

Well, congress didn't do it.

IT does seem that the blink about present-day "liberalism" is becoming too obvious to be missed. At least, there are certain facts which stand out clearly. One is that the more radical you are in politics these days, the more pronounced your claim to be a "liberal." Every Communist calls himself a liberal; every labor activist is a liberal; every crackpot with a cocked scheme to dish out somebody else's dough is a liberal; every New Dealer is a liberal. In the last campaign everywhere the New Dealers appealed in the name of "liberalism" and denounced their opponents as reactionaries, and nearly everywhere the "liberal" was licked.

THAT ought to be enough to convince the Republicans that the label "liberal" isn't the thing for which the people vote—that there is no magic in the word. It ought to make them willing to let the New Dealers and the radicals have it and stop trying to sound like them. It ought to convince any observer that this country as a whole is conservative at heart and has had enough of this ostentatious, symbolic, smug self-righteous "liberalism." What the people want now is a party which can be counted upon to straighten out the mess in which we are wallowing and return the country to sobriety and sanity.

The smart thing for the Republicans to do is to avoid reactionary policies, leaders and candidates; to discard the "liberal" type and call themselves frankly the conservative party. At this time it is much the better word. They needn't be afraid they will lose votes—they'll gain them. Let the radicals rant about the "reactionaries" and rave about "liberalism." They will anyhow. That's their stock in trade. It is all they have.

FOR EXAMPLE, there is Mr. Kenneth Simpson, the newly elected national committeeman from New York. At the Republican committee meeting in Washington Tuesday, Mr. Simpson beat his breast and belabored about necessity of the party being "liberal." While he did not say it in so many words, the test of liberalism seemed to be the election of Mr. Simpson to the executive committee. If that were done, apparently, the party would be liberal; if not, then it would have gone bankrupt for reaction. The committee should be congratulated upon not having been frightened or bluffed by Mr. Simpson, whose own political record hardly justifies him in telling anybody how to run a party.

HIS cheap slur at Mr. Hoover and his resurrection of the Liberty League boy pretty well reveal his type. This Mr. Simpson, who crudely tries to sweep Herbert Hoover or of the face of the earth, is the man who tried to make a deal last year with the American Labor party which stripped his own party of any pretense of principle and cost it the respect of the indispensable independents, which showed it—rather than willing to tie up with almost anything or anybody who had votes to deliver.

THE faculty of the deal was shown this year when the American Labor party, along with the Communists, threw its support to the New Deal candidates in New York and left Mr. Simpson with nothing at all except the memory of a bad bargain. Under the circumstances it takes a good deal of cheek to prate about his liberalism, or tell other people what they should do, to sneer at a man of outstanding character, courage and capacity whose services to his party and to his country are recognized by all fair-minded men. Mr. Hoover isn't a candidate for the 1940 nomination. His closest friends are convinced it is the last thing he wants, but whoever the candidate is certainly will need Mr. Hoover's support, because, despite the sneering campaign which men like Mr. Simpson seem to want continued, Mr. Hoover happens to have most friends than any other single Republican in the country, and there is a posted politician who does not know it.

Well, congress didn't do it.

FRANCE AT THE CROSSROADS

AT LEAST one phase of the crisis in France has been dealt with decisively and effectively. The showdown between Premier Daladier and the powerful General Confederation of Labor, which was believed to hold the potentialities of a revolt, has taken place and has resulted in a triumph for the government. In summing the armed might of the nation in support of his policies, the Premier displayed courage and determination. In the face of such a showing of strength, the forces of labor crumbled and disintegrated and in short order the strike which was to have paralyzed the French nation was broken.

For the General Confederation of Labor, the failure of its carefully-planned demonstration holds serious possibilities. The weakness of the organization has been established. The workers are certain to slip from the control of leaders who have been all-powerful in the past. Premier Daladier's hand will be correspondingly strengthened. In fact, he will be free to exercise power as he sees fit.

The next phase of the French crisis involves the uses to which Premier Daladier will put his new accession of strength and authority. Indubitably, France is facing a period of serious political change. Hemmed in by totalitarian states, the people of France are beginning to realize that their country must be reorganized on a more efficient basis if it is effectively to meet the challenge of its militaristic neighbors. The people of France are now deeply concerned as to the means through which this purpose is to be accomplished and the form which the government of the nation eventually is to assume.

In meeting the threat of the General Confederation of Labor, Premier Daladier assumed dictatorial powers, clearly with the consent of the great majority of the French people. Will he relinquish them, now that the emergency has passed, permitting his country to swing back to its normal moorings of democracy, or will he seize this opportunity to become another of Europe's men on horseback, a man of destiny, determined to rule or ruin? The precarious condition of France's finances and the imminent prospect of a burdensome super-rearmament program, with the attendant political unrest, constitute a basis for the fear that France may be lost to democracy.

If this happens, the blame will be upon the radical labor leaders and the politicians who urged them on.

OUR UNWISE SILVER-PURCHASE POLICY

If anything further were needed to prove the idocy of the United States government's silver-buying policy, it is provided by Universal, Mexico's most widely read newspaper.

Universal frankly declares that Washington's silver purchase plan has kept really hard times from knocking down Mexico's door and also, of all things, has enabled the Mexican government to go on expropriating American oil company property.

What actually happened was that our silver purchases in Mexico jumped from $48,000,000 in the first eight months of 1937 to $70,000,000 in the corresponding period of this year. This gain not only made it possible for Mexico to live in the style to which it has become accustomed since our treasury's silver-buying began, but bridged the gap brought about by the reduction in oil exports during the oil land expropriation—or should it be confiscation?—proceedings.

Could anything be more fantastic? Here we are, loading up on Mexican silver that will never be of any use to us, buying this silver at our own artificially high prices which enrich the Mexican government, and at the same time financing Mexico's seizure of oil lands that belong to American citizens.

The silver purchase policy has been cockeyed ever since it was put in effect by the treasury more than four years ago. But it has never before been shown to be as utterly screwy as Universal unwittingly demonstrates.

The newspaper's purpose in revealing the extent of the United States government's munificence to Mexico is to urge the Secretary of the Mexican Treasury to start negotiations to assure a continuation of American buying of Mexican silver in 1939. Thus the Mexicans remain true to the age-old principle that if you get a sucker on the hook you shouldn't let him get away.

The fact remains that it is time Uncle Sam stopped being this kind of sucker. Gold-buying at inflated prices is bad enough. But silver-buying—especially from Mexico, with whom we are involved in land seizure disputes—is worse. Our excess gold, billions of it, is interest at Fort Knox, Ky. The surplus silver, which has already cost us more than a billion dollars, is entombed at West Point.

The silver end of this crazy policy, inaugurated as a lure for Democratic votes in the Silver Bloc States, is intolerable nonsense. It should be brought promptly to an end, whatever the pleas of Mexico or any other country.—Philadelphia Inquirer.

REVELATION OF HUMAN FRAILTY

"Why," asks a reader, "do people so often turn against their dearest friends and loved ones in time of crisis?"

It is not, to be sure, a common occurrence. But it happens with sufficient frequency to give pause for thought. Even the noblest love will sometimes be converted into the most sharp-tongued cynicism and the bitterest anger in the face of a tragic episode entirely beyond the control of anyone.

To put such things down as resulting from the inherent weakness or depravity of human nature is not to answer our reader's question so as to satisfy the innocent object of fortuitous spleen.

Vast faith is required to conquer the heartache and mental anguish inevitably caused by a sudden, and unpredictable transition from the poesy of amiable companionship to the stark realism of foreboding and doubt.

Having heard nothing to the contrary lately, we assume that the war in China is going on as usual.

A statesman does what is best for the people, even if they oppose it; a politician sides with the people even when he knows they are wrong.

Dr. Irvine Invited To Central Church

A notable sermon was delivered a few weeks ago in the First United Presbyterian church, by the well-known pastor, Dr. Samuel E. Irvine, on the burning topic of the hour, "The Suffering Jew." He will repeat that sermon by invitation in the Central Presbyterian church, Sunday evening at 7:45 o'clock. It has awakened much comment. Many Christian pupils are speaking out in clear and definite protest against the open persecution of the Jewish brethren in Germany and elsewhere.

Dr. C. B. Wingerd will be the exchange preacher in the First United Presbyterian church.

Beginning Monday evening, revival services will be conducted in the Highland Heights Gospel Tabernacle, Rev. E. F. Zook announces. Rev. R. E. Ellenberger will be the evangelist and meetings will be conducted each night except Saturday.

Services Tomorrow In New Tabernacle

New Edifice On Vogan Street Will Be Used For First Time

At 9:45 a. m., the doors of the new Calvary Gospel Tabernacle, on Vogan street on the East Side will open tomorrow, marking the beginning of a new evangelistic and Bible conference center in this city, where many of America's outstanding evangelists and Bible teachers will be heard from time to time.

Beginning on Sunday morning at 9:45, Rev. W. D. Herrstrom, Akron, O., will be heard in five special addresses, the subjects of which are as follows:

Sunday, 9:45 to the adult classes, "The Key to the Scriptures"; 11 o'clock, "New Catechism"; 11:30, "Hittler and the Jews in the Light of Bible Prophecy"; 7:30, "Palestine in Motion Pictures."

Monday, 7:30, "Hittler, Stalin, and Mussolini in Bible Prophecy." Beginning on Tuesday evening at 7:30, Rev. Jay C. Kellogg, former cowboy of Tacoma Washington will begin a two week's series of evangelistic meetings, assisted by Rev. Russell E. Kaufman, noted song leader and evangelist of Zanesville, Ohio. Special vocal and instrumental selections will be heard in each service. Dedication services will take place on Sunday, December 11, at 2:30 p. m.

Gospel Musicians At Lutheran Church

Ohio Couple Will Play Variety Of Instruments In St. Paul's Sunday

Mr. and Mrs. Wilbur Fish, "The Gospel Musicians," from Columbus, Ohio, will present "The Life of Christ," a service of sacred music, at St. Paul's Lutheran church, North Jefferson and Grant streets, December 5, at eight p. m.

Mr. and Mrs. Fish have played before clubs and churches in 26 states stretching from California to Eastport, Maine and from the Great Lakes to the Gulf of Mexico, and in each instance they have been warmly received. These musicians have been called back by many churches to fill three or four return engagements. They have traveled over 200,000 miles.

One of the instruments they use is a large set of musical glasses, each glass of which has been selected from between 6000 and 8000 others for the tone which it gives. A few of these have to be tuned with water to give the correct tone. There are 34 glasses, seven of which are from Czechoslovakia and the remainder from Belgium. This is believed to be the only set of glasses equipped with horizontal resonators or amplifiers which make the music four or five times as loud.

A variety of instruments will be used in this unique presentation.

New Congressman Will Speak Monday To Local Ministers

Hon. Louis D. Graham Of Beaver Will Speak On "Youth And Crime"

The regular meeting of the New Castle Ministerial association will be held in the First Presbyterian church on Monday morning at 10:30 with Dr. H. A. McCurdy presiding. The speaker of the morning will be the Hon. Louis D. Graham, a lawyer from Beaver, Pa., and congressman-elect from this district. He will speak on the subject "Youth and Crime." Mr. Graham has made a special study of this field and comes prepared to speak out of his experience as a member of the legal profession. No member of the ministerium who is interested in youth ought to miss hearing Mr. Graham.

But some of the objections are material. Publisher Patterson may not have spiced the Jeffersonian plan finally, but she's delayed it. It's been so recurrent through until it's been investigated. She and her associated women are to be reckoned with.

United Presbyterian Prayer Group Meets On Tuesday Morning

New Castle and Mt. Jackson will have their monthly prayer meeting next Tuesday morning at 10:30 o'clock in Highland U. P. church. Mrs. Plummer Gibson will be the leader. Mrs. James Morgan will give the "news items" and the guest speaker will be Mrs. Eliah Kaplan, whose subject will be, "The Jew in the World Today." The ladies will bring sandwiches and coffee will be served by the hostesses.

Alliance Church Meeting Tonight

Continuing the four-day series of services being conducted in the Gospel Tabernacle, 210 Pearson street, Rev. George Powell, of French West Africa will speak again tonight at 7:30 and show stereopticon views of his work in that land.

Tomorrow will bring to a close these meetings with two messages being brought by Rev. Powell. He will speak in the morning at 10:45 and again in the evening at 7:30. There will be special messages in song rendered at each service.

Firemen Ask Public Support For Convention

ELLWOOD CITY, Dec. 3.—Next August, the Ellwood City Volunteer Fire department will be host to the Western Pennsylvania Firemen's Association convention.

The department in the past ten years has asked for public support to aid in bringing the huge convention to this city. If you are approached by a fireman, remember he is always ready and willing to help you at all times and under every condition and now he is asking your support, is the plea made by the department.

There are 34 counties included in this association and during the convention they form a small city.

Christmas Dinner Planned By Class

ELLWOOD CITY, Dec. 3.—Mrs. Harry Gould, Sixth street, graciously entertained members of the Doremas class of the First Baptist church last evening at her home with seventeen members attending. Devotions were led by Miss Alberta McDanel and during the business period in charge of Mrs. F. L. Schweitzer it was agreed to give a sum of money to the building fund and contribute to the Relief for China fund each month. Arrangements were made for meeting again on Tuesday evening, December 20 for a 6 o'clock turkey dinner at the church with Mrs. Catherine Jones, Mrs. Garfield Thomas, Mrs. Harry Anderson, Mrs. Harry Turner, Mrs. Harry Gould and Mrs. George Moore in charge of the affair. A pleasant social hour followed with a tempting repast being served by the hostess.

Mildred Vogler Entertains Class

ELLWOOD CITY, Dec. 3.—Miss Mildred Vogler opened her home, in Orchard avenue, Thursday evening to members of Class 4 of the Bell Memorial Presbyterian church who gathered for their November meeting. Devotions were in charge of Miss Lila Vogler and during the business session it was agreed to aid a needy family at Christmas time. Games and contests occupied the attention of the 15 members for a period with the hostess and her aides, Miss Helen Mayne, Miss Bernice Turner and Miss Lila Vogler, serving appealing refreshments.

Shelby Games Slated Tonight

ELLWOOD CITY, Dec. 3.—Now that all of the six teams of the Shelby basketball league have shown their wares, fans realize that the battle for supremacy is going to be nip and tuck all the way. Tonight's games sees two of the strongest contenders, the Office and Hot Finish pitted against two powerful teams in the Inspection and Cold Finish. The first game between the Office and Inspection will begin at 7:15 p. m., and the second game at 8:30. A dance will follow the games. The Junior Saxons open their home season tonight at 7 o'clock when they meet the Monaca Saxons at Lincoln court. The girls games begin at 7 o'clock and the boys games at 8 o'clock. A dance and banquet will follow at the German club. All Saxons and their families will be admitted to the game free of charge.

Richards Funeral Largely Attended

Rev. H. T. Carson and Rev. Ralph Little Conduct Services

ELLWOOD CITY, Dec. 3.—A large assemblage of bereaved relatives and friends paid their final tribute of respect to George T. Richards, who passed away on Tuesday afternoon at his home, 300 Jefferson street, Ewing Park, after an extended illness, by attending the funeral services held on Friday afternoon at 2 o'clock from the residence. Rev. H. T. Carson, pastor of the First Methodist church, was assisted in conducting the sad services by Rev. Ralph Little of Vandergrift. By request, Rev. Carson repeated "Crossing the Bar" and Mrs. H. C. Steinberger and Mrs. B. G. Osterhouse sang two lovely selections, "Face To Face" and "Sometime We'll Understand". Many beautiful floral offerings testified to the regard and affection in which he was held. Out-of-town relatives attended from Sharon, Greenville and New Castle. Interment was made in the Oak Park cemetery in New Castle with Thomas Carothers, Hiram Myers, D. E. Cain, Robert Robertson, Clem Kingston and William Sanders serving as pallbearers.

Lincoln School Football Squad Honored By Party

ELLWOOD CITY, Dec. 3.—Lincoln high school football squad was honored by a party given last evening when members of the Ellwoodian Staff entertained the Senior high school students at a grand party honoring the 1938 football squad.

Decorated with the school colors, blue and white, the setting was complete with goal posts and cardboard figures of football players with an indirect lighting arrangements adding further atmosphere. At the half an honorary football team of girls composed of Betty Barkley, Catherine Cartwright, Ruth Davis, Doris Christie, Virginia Finner, Sarah Marion, Dorothy Mazze, Grace Wallis, Joan Zeigler, Shirley Price, Hazel Reese and Clara Irwin were introduced and interviewed by Myron Gelbach, after which the boys elected Miss Hazel Reese as "queen". Coaches Croft and Gills spoke briefly and a dance was devoted to each member of the team. An exhibition dance by Captain Tommy Jones and Miss Grace Wallis won the admiration of the entire assemblage.

For those that did not dance, ping pong, cards and checkers were provided as additional entertainment. From the standpoint of attendance and enjoyment, the affair was the most successful one that has been held at the school for a number of years and a full measure of credit goes to Harry Zeigler, the general chairman, and his many aides.

Special Services

Union Auxiliary Elects Officers

Mrs. Lila Lutz Is Named President Of Sons Of Veterans Organization

ELLWOOD CITY, Dec. 3.—When members of the Sons of Union Veterans auxiliary assembled last evening in the Fourth street V. F. W. hall for their bi-weekly meeting, officers to serve during the year 1939 were elected: Those chosen were: Past president, Mrs. Anna Morris; president, Mrs. Lila Lutz; senior vice, Mrs. Paul Forsythe; chaplain, Mrs. Isabel McDonald; treasurer, Miss Cora Thompson; patriotic instructor, Mrs. Jennie Billig; guide, Mrs. Jessie Means; assistant guide, Mrs. Pearl Daugherty; color guards, Mrs. Pearl Hartung and Mrs. Margaret Duncan; inside guard, Mrs. Blanche Cleary; outside guard, Mrs. Mary Forbush; musician, Mrs. Susie Parker; trustees, Mrs. Isabel McDonald, Mrs. Pearl Daugherty and Mrs. Anna Morris; department delegate, Mrs. Lutz; alternate, Mrs. Genevieve Duncan; national delegate, Miss Cora Thompson, and installing officer, Earl Duncan. The secretary and counselor will be appointed by the president. After the business meeting, bingo was enjoyed with Mrs. Genevieve Duncan and William Duncan being the winners. A tempting lunch was served at the close of the evening by Miss Thompson and Mrs. Morris. For the next meeting on Friday evening, December 16, a Christmas party was planned to be held at the regular meeting place. An initiation of candidates will be featured at that time.

Shooting Deer

ELLWOOD CITY, Dec. 3.—Among the Fourth ward hunters who have returned home with deer are Paul Houk, John Galvin and Orin Barker. Houk and Galvin got their deer at Ridgeway and Barker was successful at Meedix Run.

Methodist Church Fellowship Dinner Is Most Successful

Rev. A. E. Driggers and Charles A. French Are Guest Speakers

ELLWOOD CITY, Dec. 3.—Fathers and Sons of the First Methodist church gathered last evening in the diningroom for a fellowship dinner were urged to more fully appreciate the advantages and blessing of this country by Rev. A. E. Driggers, pastor of the First Presbyterian church, of Rochester, in an earnest and sincere address.

Having travelled extensively in foreign countries, the speaker could authoritatively contrast the conditions of America with those in other lands and he did so in an effective manner.

Of equal interest was a fine talk by Charles A. French, state fish commissioner. Mr. French said that the fish commission through stocking small ponds and creeks had reduced delinquency among boys in Pittsburgh. The fish, carp taken from the Pymatuning Dam, are placed in ponds and the boys have their own fish warden and rules. A great many other communities are requesting the fish commission to follow the same plan in their cities, as a means of occupying the attention of the juveniles.

Rev. H. T. Carson, pastor of the church, presided as toastmaster in an amiable manner and pep singing was led by Paul Winter. All in all the affair was most enjoyable and successful and much credit goes to the general chairman, G. C. Dennison.

One hundred fathers and sons attended and partook of a delicious braised steak dinner served at attractively appointed tables at six o'clock by members of the Ladies Aid society under the direction of Mrs. Paul Winter.

Shelby Male Chorus To Sing On Sunday At Baptist Church

ELLWOOD CITY, Dec. 3.—The Shelby club male chorus of the National Tube company under the direction of James P. Croft will sing at the worship service of the First Baptist church on Sunday morning at 11 o'clock. Walter Levere is the manager and Fred Filapone, the accompanist.

Numbers to be sung include: "Consolation" by Dow; "O Come All Ye Faithful" arranged by Paul Bliss; "Lo, How A Rose 'er Blooming" by Pratorius; "Joy To The World" by Handel; and "When The Crimson Sun Has Set" arranged by Robert Perry.

This is one of the few times the chorus plans to appear this season and the public is invited to join the service. The pastor, Rev. Bernie G. Osterhouse will speak on the subject, "Where Is He?"

Building Fund To Be Aided By Baptist Workers

ELLWOOD CITY, Dec. 3.—At a meeting of the Workers conference of the First Baptist church held Thursday evening in the prayer meeting room, it was agreed to give $100 to the church building fund. Christmas program arrangements were made for the primary and home departments. A discussion of Sunday school problems occupied the rest of the evening.

Ruzicka Funeral Friday Afternoon

ELLWOOD CITY, Dec. 3.—Funeral services for Mrs. Johanna Ruzicka, who passed away on Tuesday evening at her home, in College street, after an illness, were held on Friday afternoon from the late home, with Rev. Joseph E. Pringle, pastor of the Bell Memorial Presbyterian church as the officiant. Mrs. Ruzicka was well-known and respected and the services were attended by many relatives and friends a number coming from Akron, Youngstown and Ambridge. There were many lovely flowers. Pallbearers were: Ludwig Rossman, Andy Klose, John Bescek, Jacob Kohl, Frank Javorick and James Koloff. Interment was made in the Locust Grove cemetery.

Mrs. Ken Wilson Entertains Club

ELLWOOD CITY, Dec. 3.—Mrs. Ken Wilson graciously entertained members of the H. E. C. club on Thursday evening at her home on Summit avenue for the bi-weekly session. The hours were devoted to playing 500 with two tables in play and the high score awards went to Mrs. Howard Boucher and Mrs. Wade Donaldson. Mrs. Boucher aided the hostess in serving a dainty lunch. Plans were made to meet again on Thursday evening, December 15, for a Christmas party at the home of Mrs. George Reicher on Franklin avenue.

Plan To Resume Publication Of Y. P. C. U. Paper

Miss Annabelle Rodgers, New Castle, Selected Editor By Officers

ELLWOOD CITY, Dec. 3.—At the December meeting of the executive committee of the Young People's Christian Union of Beaver Valley Presbytery held last evening in the home of James Conley, of Beaver Falls, plans were launched for the resumption of the publication of "The Beaver Valley Broadcaster".

Miss Annabelle Rodgers, of New Castle, was named as editor of the paper and members of the New Castle district aided by James Conley will compose the business and editorial staff.

Tentative arrangements were made for a mid-year institute to be held in April. A committee was appointed by the president, Miss Edna McConnell, to arrange the program and other details.

Encouraging reports were given by the various chairmen and it was decided to continue the visitation campaign during the present month.

Appetizing refreshments were served at an appointed hour after which the group departed to meet again in regular session on the first Friday evening of January at the home of Clyde Byers, of New Sheffield.

Baptist Church Has Banquet For Fathers And Sons

One Hundred Attend Enjoyable Affair Held Friday Night At Church

ELLWOOD CITY, Dec. 3.—Gay, colorful Christmas suggestions resplendently decorated long tables in the First Baptist church dining room last evening and provided a festive setting for the annual fathers and sons banquet.

About one hundred gathered for the enjoyable event which began with the serving of a sumptuous steak dinner. The dinner arrangements were in charge of Mrs. Frank Kline, Mrs. D. J. Jones, Sr., and Mrs. John Sartwell and they were aided by the women of the church in preparing and serving.

Russell Shaffer proved to be a fine selection as toastmaster and he introduced Rev. A. E. Stevenson, pastor of the First Presbyterian church, who gave an appropriate address. W. F. Kegel held the attention of the group with an entertaining talk. Bert Cable extended the toast to the fathers and Garfield Thomas responded to the sons and also led group singing.

Arrangements for the successful affair were in charge of Paul Conner.

Baptist Class Meets At Church

ELLWOOD CITY, Dec. 3.—Miss Jean Frost was a special guest of the Torch class of the First Baptist church on Friday evening when the members gathered in the class room for their regular meeting.

A brief business meeting was conducted by Miss Mildred Cable with plans being arranged for a Christmas party to be held at the church on Friday evening, December 16.

An interesting variety of games and contests followed the meeting, after which a box lunch was enjoyed.

Christian Church Sunday Services

ELLWOOD CITY, Dec. 3.—Prof. R. L. Green, of Bethany, W. Va., will be the guest speaker at the morning service of the First Christian church at 10:45 a. m., on Sunday.

Prof. Green is a member of the Theological department of Bethany college and is a well-known speaker. Sunday school will be held as usual at 9:40 a. m.

Misses Aurelia Popescu, Helen Minocci, Jean O'Tousa and Joseph O'Tousa motored to West Bridgewater on Friday where they enjoyed a conducted tour through the Keystone bakery.

Helping Hand Class To Aid Needy Family

ELLWOOD CITY, Dec. 3.—When members of the Helping Hand class of the Park Gate Baptist church gathered last evening at the home of Miss Ruth Brown, of Beechwood boulevard, for their regular meeting, it was agreed to aid a needy family at Christmas time.

Miss Goldie Main led the devotional period. Two members of the class, Miss Neda Bazzichi, who is in Miami, Fla., and Miss Dorothy Williams, who is at Newark, O., will be honored by the class with handkerchief showers for Christmas.

An interesting variety of games and contests held the attention of the guests with nice awards going to Lillie Skewis, Mary McKim, Gwen Davies, Goldie Main and Goldie Stevenson. Miss Davies aided the hostess in serving dainty refreshments.

Another meeting will be held on Friday evening, December 23, with the place to be decided.

Merry Social Event For Intermediates

ELLWOOD CITY, Dec. 3.—A merry event of Friday evening took place in the basement of the First United Presbyterian church when members of the Intermediate society gathered for a social.

Twenty-six members attended and enjoyed an evening of amusing games and contests concluding with the serving of "bag" refreshments. Arrangements were in charge of Mrs. Dalvey Wright and Mrs. W. E. Minter.

This band broadcasts here and is a favorite on the program. They plan several novelty numbers.
The second attendance contest begins next week.
Very truly yours,
THOMAS J. ELLIOTT,
Secretary.

Provincial Players Plan Social Program

Announce A Quadruple Plan Designed For The Enrichment Of Cultural Life

Broadening its field of endeavor, the Provincial Players today announced a planned program for the coming months which goes outside the circle of play presentation but is intended to be a definite contribution to the cultural life of the city. The plan as announced is a quadruple one. First, broadcasts of traditional fairy tales, modern stories and the best in children's literature will be made. Second, a play for children each month will be presented by adults as the policy of the playhouse. This as again the exploitation of the children themselves. Third, a high school play contest in January and fourth, a school of dramatics, dancing, and social graces. In the latter emphasis will be placed upon charm, poise and graciousness.

Provincial Players is not a commercial organization. It looks to no profit as its objective but only to the development of local dramatic talent, the production of worth while plays and a planned contribution to community life.

In the past few days a new electric sign has been erected at the playhouse at the corner of Washington and Bedford streets. Rehearsals are progressing for the presentation of Dickens' immortal "Christmas Carol." This will be presented on December 12-13-14-15.

Four Pleas Are Entered At Court Saturday Morning

Four pleas of guilty were taken by Judge Thomas W. Dickey at court this morning. Herbert E. Bradley entered a plea to operating a motor vehicle while under the influence of liquor. William John Sanfeller also pleaded guilty to drunken driving. Julia Mellrot and James Mellrot entered pleas to roving unlawfully. At the recent election they voted in the third precinct of Shenango township, where they had formerly resided, but at the time of the election they were living in the fourth ward of this city. They claim that some one had told them that they could vote in their former precinct.

Chairman Dies Plans To Probe W. P. A. Guides

Proofs Of New Jersey And Montana W. P. A. Guides To Be Examined

(International News Service)
WASHINGTON, Dec. 3.—Chairman Dies (D. Texas, of the house committee investigating un-American activities today planned to examine proofs of New Jersey and Montana WPA guides to learn whether high WPA officials ordered alleged radical and subversive matter deleted.

Dies had the proofs securely locked in a safe today, following their seizure at the office of director Hester Alsberg of the WPA writers project.

"We subpoenaed the material because I was informed that the objectionable matter was being taken out, and that changes were made to the proof sheets," said Dies. "We wished to see what, if anything, had been done."

Dies had read into the record of his hearing excerpts from the New Jersey guide which he said, were un-American in character. He asserted that a report of shake-up in the New Jersey writers project followed publicity given to matter in the guide by his committee.

On Monday Mrs. Ellen Woodward, assistant WPA administrator, will go before the committee with a defense of the WPA theater, art and writers projects. The committee, during its hearings, has received testimony that Communism is rampant in the projects.

Capt. John J. Keegan of the Portland, Oregon, police department, had conferred with committee representatives today regarding alleged subversive activities in that city. The committee expects to open a hearing to question Keegan.

Gra-Y Youths Hear Talk On Newspapers

Richards Speaks At Rally; 'Y' Midgets Rally This Morning

Close to 125 boys, members of the Gra-Y clubs of Thaddeus Stevens, Lincoln-Garfield, Ben Franklin and Croton schools, heard Bart Richards of The News speak on "Newspapers" at a rally in the Y. M. C. A. last night.

Richards spoke for Rev. Chester T. P. Yates, pastor of Third U. P. church, who was called to Cleveland yesterday.

After hearing Richards' talk, the boys held separate club meetings. A swim concluded the program.

A host of "Y" Midgets attended a morning-long celebration in the Y. M. C. A. today. They closed their get-together with a noon feed.

Christmas Seal Returns Are Now Being Received

Many Residents Of Community
Are Prompt In Making Returns On Seals

Although Christmas Seals, which are being sold by the Lawrence County Tuberculosis society to raise funds with which to combat tuberculosis, have only been in the hands of local residents for the past week, officers of the society state that the returns are coming in nicely and indications point to a successful campaign.

Seals have been sent to all who have been patrons of the seal sale in past years, and to others which the society believes would be interested in furthering this great work.

Any persons who have been missed in the distribution of seals can secure them at the office of the Lawrence County Tuberculosis society, room 210, S. & T. building, or they will be mailed to anyone requesting them by telephone.

People wishing to procure additional seals above the amount sent them, can also secure them in this manner.

Meat Shop Owners Start Protesting On Deer Season

(International News Service)
JOHNSTOWN, Pa., Dec. 3.—Cambria county butchers Friday complained to state game officials that the big local deer kill resulting from the open season on antlerless deer has cut their business 75 per cent.

Especially, they said, this was true in the northern section of the county where virtually every family has venison. They estimated that over 1,000 hunters from Johnstown alone killed deer during the present season.

Former Judge MacFarlane Dead

(International News Service)
PITTSBURGH, Dec. 3.—One of the stalwarts of Pittsburgh's civil life was gone today in the death of former Judge James R. MacFarlane, a native of Towanda, Bradford county.

The former judge collapsed from a heart seizure in the morning yesterday at his home here and died at 5 p. m. He was 80.

MacFarlane attended Susquehanna Collegiate Institute and Princeton University, read law at Towanda and was admitted to the bar here in 1881. He practiced in Pittsburgh from 1881 until his first election to the bench in 1903. He was re-elected twice and when he retired he was president judge of the Common Pleas Court.

Funeral services will be held Monday afternoon at Shady-side Presbyterian church. Interment will be private.

High School Boys Are Shown Cause To Appreciate U. S.

(International News Service)
PITTSBURGH, Dec. 3.—Three hundred high school boys from Southwestern Pennsylvania today had a vivid idea of why they should be grateful because they live in the United States and not in some dictatorship like Germany or Italy.

In those countries, the Rev. H. B. Hudnut, pastor of the Bellevue Presbyterian church, told them at a meeting here on "Democracy and Modern Youth," the only freedom boys enjoy is the privilege of constantly saluting their dictators. Rev. Hudnut, who recently completed a tour of Europe to survey religious and political freedom, spoke at a banquet of the southwest area of the Y. M. C. A., in the Bellevue Y. M. C. A.

"In such countries," he said, referring to the dictatorships, "you would have to learn to love war and armaments, to put the state before your home and God to learn to be cruel."

Public Accountants Aid Investigation

November Grand Jury Being Aided By Accountants In
"Consent Verdict"
Inquiry

(International News Service)
PITTSBURGH, Dec. 3.—Certified public accountants today were called in to help the November grand jury which is investigating the $375,000 consent verdict scandal.

The accountants were examining the records of bank accounts and other transactions by former city solicitor Churchill B. Mehard, and other city officials. While the grand jury is in recess until Monday, the accountants will work over the week end making compilations for the jurors.

The accountants were summoned by District Attorney Andrew T. Park, fighting a battle against time. The legal existence of the jurors expires next Saturday and Park hopes to be able to bring in a batch of indictments before that time. If the jury is unable to complete its work by Saturday, under the law it can only make presentments which could however be used as the basis for a new investigation by the December grand jury.

Two of Mehard's appointees, three attorneys, two bank officials and two real estate experts appeared before the grand jury yesterday. Park charged a system of corruption existed in Mehard's office to settle cases against the city without the formality of jury trials. Mehard himself is under arrest on a charge of taking a bribe from a lawyer who received a healthy verdict against the city without going before a jury.

EAST BROOK

CHURCH SPEAKER
Miss Emma Dean Anderson, who has spent 50 years in missionary work in India, will be the guest speaker at the morning worship service of the East Brook U. P. church, December 4 at 11 o'clock. This will be the thank-offering service for the church.

GRANGE MEETING
Thursday evening, December 8, the East Brook grange will meet in their hall. The Pomona grange chorus, under the direction of Miss Ropp of New Bedford, will attend this meeting and present special music for the occasion.

MARY JANE MEETING
The monthly meeting of the Mary Jane society of the East Brook U. P. church will be held Tuesday evening, December 6, at the home of Miss Helen Young. The work committee plans to pack a Christmas box for a Kentucky mission school at this meeting.

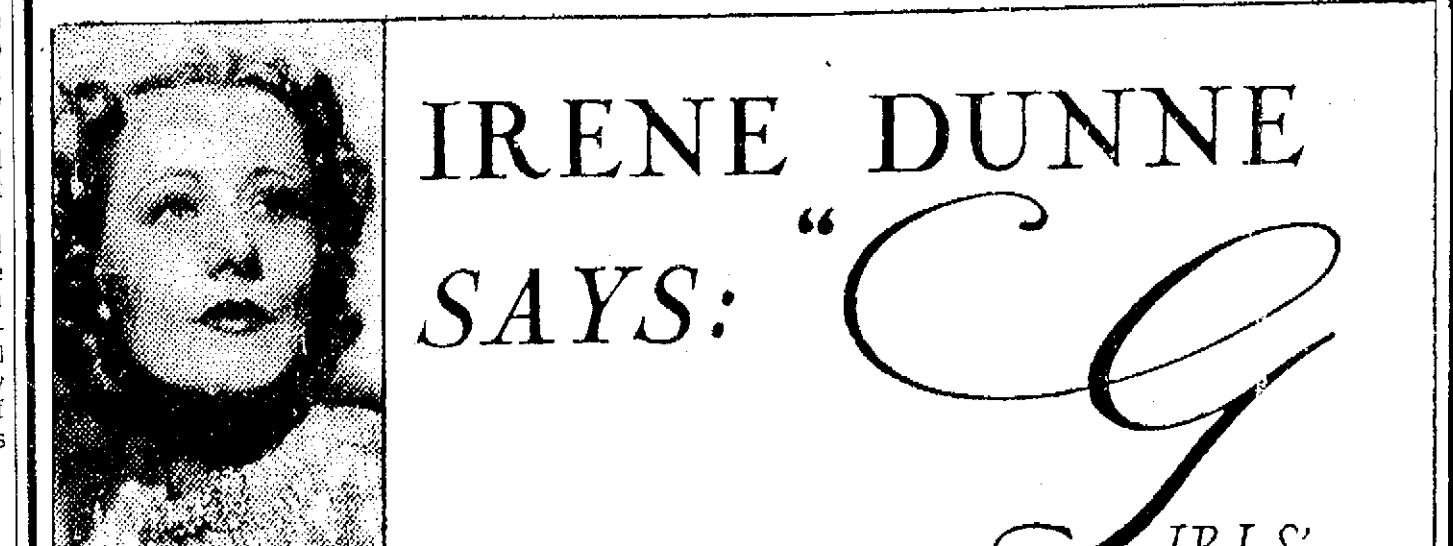

PLAN CHRISTMAS PARTY
Neal Edie, superintendent of the East Brook U. P. Sabbath school, announces that the teachers and officers are planning for a Christmas party to be held in the Sabbath school room on Monday evening, December 19. This social gathering will be held in place of a Christmas entertainment.

EAST BROOK NOTES
Mrs. J. A. Young, who suffered injury when she fell in her home recently, has improved sufficiently to return to her home from the Jameson Memorial hospital.
Mrs. Ren Spier from Colorado and Mrs. Lizzie Leyde of New Castle spent Thanksgiving vacation at the home of their brother, Jacob Baker and family, and called on other relatives in the community.

Quite a number from this community attended the school spelling bee held Thursday evening at senior high school, New Castle. East Brook high school came in second place with Miss Patricia McCreary holding the honors.

Dear Quotarians:
Mrs. Harry Gornley will review for us Monday evening the "Art Exhibit" which she attended in Pittsburgh recently. This program will be most interesting and the program committee would appreciate your attendance.
Guests are also welcome, but please remember your reservations before 11:30 Monday.
LILA V. HENSHAW,

IRENE DUNNE
SAYS: "GIRLS'
SCHOOL is a charming, delightful and touching story, showing the joys, heartbreaks and first romances of a group of young girls. It might be a page from the life of every woman..."

More eloquent than any words of ours is this high praise from a great star. You will agree with her when you see GIRLS' SCHOOL, an unusually thrilling picture that tells movingly the story of a hundred hearts, trembling on the verge of a hundred breathless tomorrows.

The report gave no details of the disaster.

Wolves' Election
On Tuesday Night
During their regular dinner meeting in The Castleton on Tuesday evening at 6:30 o'clock members of the Wolves club will hold their annual election.
Charles DeCarbo, chairman of the entertainment committee, today announced that final plans have been completed for the club's annual party on New Year's eve in The Castleton.

CRIMINAL COURT TO CONVENE ON MONDAY
December term of quarter sessions will open on Monday morning, when the grand jury will convene for the purpose of determining what cases are to go to trial. There have been about 100 criminal prosecutions since the September term of court, but owing to the fact that District Attorney John G. Lamere has succeeded in getting pleas only about 20 cases remain to be presented to the grand jury.

CHANGING BABY (2)
Yesterday I gave a few hints on the technique of changing your baby's nappies. But it is a subject which cannot be dismissed in a few words, so I shall give some more which I hope may be of use to you mothers.

If the baby is a girl, then the extra part of the diaper can be folded at the back when you expect the child to be lying on her back, and in front when she will be lying on her stomach. In the case of a boy-baby, always have this extra pad in front. Always have the diaper in position. It is wise to put a little cotton in the abdominal binder at the back in order to prevent it from being soiled.

When you pin the diaper, hold your hand between the baby and the nappies, push the pin through, then close it. Always make sure that the safety pins you use are of good quality, and that they can't open by itself. The finished diaper should be snug-fitting, but not too tight. You will be able to judge from experience after you have changed the baby a few times, just how tight it should be.

I think it is wise, after the diaper is in place, to fold another one around the baby, high up on the abdomen. This gives added protection. Over this the child's shirt should be pulled down. As the child gets older, pin the diaper to the shirt. This will keep it in place.

Parents often write asking me about the use of water-proof nappies. Well, sometimes when extra protection is needed, water-proof nappies will prevent accidents. But if they are used too often they may cause prickly heat for babies get too hot.

The wise mother learns a great deal from the soiled diaper. She can tell much about the health of her child from it. For instance if the urine is too much discolored she will know that her child isn't getting enough water to drink.

When a bowel movement hasn't come on schedule, and the mother knows that it is about due, she can save herself a lot of work by putting some absorbent tissue inside the nappies, or there are paper diapers which are useful at times, and which can be thrown away. Every day at bath time the child should be thoroughly washed. In this routine, the technique is different for boys than for girls. In the case of a girl, always clean from front to back. As the child gets a little older always wash carefully after each bowel movement. Be sure and call the doctor if there is any swelling or discharge. The soiled diaper, when removed, must be rinsed and placed into a pail that should be kept for that purpose. This pail should contain a warm water-boric acid solution; a tablespoon of boric acid to two quarts of water. Before going into the pail the soiled diaper should be flushed in running water. All diapers should be washed once a day, and hung out to dry in the sun. When dry, the diaper should be shaken well, and put away for future use. Ironing is not necessary, either for diapers, or the baby's towels. But if you have the time to iron them it is wise, for the heat of the iron sterilizes the diaper.

PULASKI

Mrs. Francis Kuhn, of Frizelleburg, called on friends in town Thursday.

Robert Stowe and Grover Gearhart have returned to the Struthers furnace to work.

James Jones and daughter, Leila, were visitors at Hamot Hospital, Erie, on Monday.

Mrs. Alice Davidson, who has been in poor health for some time, is confined to her bed at present.

Charles Cover is confined to his home again with tonsillitis. He had just recovered from an attack of quinsy.

Friends of Frank Purrell are sorry to hear he is a patient in Grove

City hospital, where he is being treated for sciatic rheumatism. The following hunters have arrived home from the mountains with deer: William White, Grover Gearhart, G. W. Cameron and Robert Mitchell.

Mrs. Milton Wagner, of Delaware Grove, Mrs. Olive Allison, of Greenville, Mrs. George Timblin and Mrs. Ida Seiple, of Clark, were guests Wednesday of Mrs. Laura Wilson.

Mr. and Mrs. Albert Raine, of Youngstown, Ohio, are guests of Mr. and Mrs. Cliff Gilliland. Other callers in the Gilliland home were Mr. and Mrs. John Gilliland and son, of Mercer.

Pomona Grange Meets Next Week
New Wilmington Grangers Will Be Hosts At Monthly Session Wednesday

Pomona grange will meet Wednesday, December 7, in the New Wilmington U. P. church, with the New Wilmington grange serving as host. The morning session, in charge of Pomona Master W. Sharp Fuller, will be devoted to business, a welcome to Pomona by Master Logan Buckwalter of New Wilmington grange, and response by William Robison, master of Mahoning grange. The afternoon session will be featured by an address by Judge W. Walter Brahm, and an address by Harold R. McCulloch, county agent. Musical selections will be furnished by a quartet from Liberty grange, and a grange question bee will be conducted by Pomona Master Fuller. The subordinate grange masters will relate some gleanings from their year in office. Miss Lucille Purdy of Westminster college will give a short program of readings.

LETTERS TO THE NEWS
Letters intended for this column must be signed with name and address of writer.

December 1, 1938
New Castle News Company, N. Mercer Street, New Castle, Penna.

Attention: Mr. Fred L. Rentz.
My Dear Mr. Rentz:
The Lawrence County Chapter of the American Red Cross is closing their 1939 Roll Call which will, when complete tabulations are made, be the best Roll Call the Chapter has had since withdrawing from the Chest.

We feel that a great deal of the accomplishments of our Roll Call Committee were due to the splendid co-operation of The News in giving so freely of their space and permitting so many articles to appear throughout the year.

Such courtesy as you have extended to our Chapter cannot go unnoted, and at an executive board meeting I was directed to write you thanking you for the Chapter as well as thanking you for the National Headquarters for the splendid co-operation your paper has given us.

Very sincerely yours,
RALPH F. DAVIS,
Chairman.

DAILY DOZEN

(From the Medical Society of the State of Pennsylvania)
Of in the still night the child wakes up screaming. It is quite upsetting to the household. Distressed parents are at a loss to understand the outburst. It may have been a bad dream which prompted the cry. Or fear of the dark or a strange sound outside. Overeating at supper sometimes causes night terrors. The light should be turned on and the child taken up. This is to make sure he is fully awake. Then he should be put back to bed. Usually he wants to be taken to bed with his parents. This is a bad habit and one not easily overcome. Parents should reassure the child who has night terrors.

National Y. W. C. A. Staff Worker Knows Problems Of Negro

Miss Marion Cuthbert of the national Y. W. C. A. staff, who will visit the Elm Street and Central branches of the New Castle Y. W. C. A. Tuesday and Wednesday of next week, has had a great deal of training and experience to qualify her in the work of developing negro leadership.

Before joining the national staff of the Y. W. C. A., Miss Cuthbert was dean of women at Talladega college in Alabama. Her family home is in St. Paul, Minnesota. She received a bachelor of science degree from Boston university and master of arts degree from Columbia university, 1931.

Miss Cuthbert is particularly interested in the work of developing young women leaders to conduct local Y. W. C. A. activities of recreation, informal education, discussion and social activities.

During the summer of 1936, Miss Cuthbert went to Germany to be one of the speakers at the International Study Conference for Workers among women and girls in secondary schools. The conference was held under the joint auspices of the World's Student Christian Federation, the World's Y. W. C. A., and the World's Y. W. C. A., and a number of independent national groups. Under the title, "The Responsibility of Youth in Modern Society," Miss Cuthbert conducted three seminars in the ten-day program.

Miss Cuthbert has won considerable distinction in literary fields as the author of "April Grasses," a book of poems of "We Sing America," a book for children containing stories and facts about negroes in the United States; and of "Juliette Derivative," which reveals the life and philosophy of Miss Derivative, one of the outstanding interracial leaders of the Young Women's Christian Association.

Special Meeting Of School Board

Officers of the New Castle School Board will be elected Monday night when the organization meeting will be held. The school code requires every board to meet on the first Monday night of December to elect officers. Another such meeting provided for in the school code is the tax levying in April.

The probabilities are there will be no change in the official personnel. At the present time Daniel B. Woolcock is the president. Clyde M. Whitaker is vice president John B. Bechtol secretary and business manager and William J. Moffatt, solicitor.

The terms of Mr. Bechtol is a four year one and is not up for election this year.

Presbyterians Top Christians In Extra-Period

Louder Scores Winning Basket In Thrilling Church League Battle Friday

EPWORTH-THIRD U. P. ALSO WIN GAMES

The Central Presbyterians led by Louder the tall center, topped the first Christian team last night at the "Y" in a church league battle 25 to 23. It required an extra-period to decide the issue. The Presbyterians led at the half 15 to 5.

Patton, Davies, Louder and Sadler led the scoring in the game. The Epworth M. E. team romped to a 29 to 15 win over the First Baptist team in another game, and the Third U. P. boys bested the Greek Orthodox 35 to 22 in the third game on the night's card.

Tech Suggests That Getchell Officiate Game

Tech Willing To Forget 'Wrong Down' Error By Referee Getchell

(International News Service)
PITTSBURGH, Dec. 3.—Among the names being considered for officiating posts at the Sugar Bowl game by Carnegie Tech meets Texas Christian there in New Orleans next January 3 is that of John S. "Wrong Down" Getchell, of Minneapolis. It was revealed today.

Athletic Director Buday Overend of Carnegie Tech flew to the battle site last night to complete arrangements for the post season game and took along with him the names of five officials favorable to Tech. Among them was Getchell, it was revealed today by Head Coach Bill Kern of the Tartans.

Although there is a feeling at Tech that Getchell's call of the wrong down helped Notre Dame beat Tech and mar its otherwise perfect record the Skibos want to show the sports world they are willing to forgive and forget in the interest of true sportsmanship. Getchell and his supporters say he did nothing more than make an honest mistake when he told a player it was third down in a crucial moment in the game when it was really fourth. Tech lost to Notre Dame 7 to 0.

Big Ten May Vote For Post Season Games In Future

Propose To Put Winner Of Big Ten Each Year In Rose Bowl Classic

(International News Service)
CHICAGO, Dec. 3.—Although the athletic directors of the Western Conference, meeting in Chicago, discussed a motion to repeal the Big Ten rule against post-season football games, a way was left open today for a proposal which may bring together annually the champions of the Big Ten and Pacific Coast conferences.

Under the existing Big Ten rule the football season ends on the Saturday before Thanksgiving and the conference champion is forbidden to play any post-season games. This has worked against any appearance of Big Ten players in the Rose Bowl or in any other of the "bowl" games. For some time, however, the coast has been talking up the idea of a coast football champ playing the Big Ten winner each year in the Rose Bowl, and it was with this suggestion in mind it appeared that yesterday's motion was made.

Boosters Play Irwin Passers Here on Sunday

Clark McClelland, Former New Castle, Slippery Rock Star, On Visiting Team

Another topnotch basketball attraction is carded here on Sunday afternoon when the New Castle Boosters play the Irwin Tool quintet. In the preliminary game, starting at 2:15 o'clock, a pair of local teams will battle it out.

Clark McClelland, a former star at New Castle high and later at Slippery Rock college, will start at center for Irwin. The remainder of the lineup consists of an array of collegiate stars.

Boosters Lose To Dukes, 35-25

Exciting Battle; Reiber Stars For Freshmen

GERSONS SURPRISE; TOP FRESHMEN, 25-24

Before some 800 spectators, the smooth functioning Duquesne university basketball team scored a 35-25 victory over the hard fighting New Castle Boosters Friday night on The Arena court.

The large gallery saw one of the finest displays of basketball maneuvering seen here in several years. The versatile collegiates were forced to play their best brand of ball to subdue the local cagers. The Boosters were in the thick of the battle until the final few minutes when the Dukes finally piled up a comfortable lead.

The Davies machine grabbed a 7-6 lead as the initial period ended and walked off the hardwood at the half with a 15-10 margin. The Dukes were out front to the tune of 22-17 at the three-quarter mark. During the early stages of the final chapter the Boosters narrowed the lead, and trailed by a lone marker at one stage. Becker, Mikovich and Widowitz shared honors for the Dukes. Coach Fraser's card showed a decided improvement since last Sunday. Dutkin and Adams were high scorers for the locals.

Freshmen Lose To Gersons
In a hair-raising battle that had the entire gallery on the edges of their seats, the Gersons rose to new heights by winning a 25-24 victory over the Duquesne Freshmen in the first attraction. Lester "Bus" Reiber, a former New Castle high star, was the spearhead of the Freshies' attack. He was easily the big gun on the Freshman team. Besides playing a bangup game on defense, Reiber found the nets for three field goals and converted three Annie Oakleys.

The Gersons trailed throughout most of the game but kept pecking away at the lead. With 35 seconds to go, the locals were behind one point. As the timer was ready to blow the final whistle, Harry Hordis sent the sphere through the mesh for the winning tally.

Tax Assessment Laws Under Fire

Attack Is Made At Conference Of City Officials At State College

(International News Service)
STATE COLLEGE, Pa., Dec. 3.—An attack on the state's assessment laws formed the theme of the third annual meeting of local and municipal finance officers of Pennsylvania in session here today.

Pennsylvania's assessment laws were termed the worst in the United States by Elmer W. Osenbach, city assessor of Allentown, at the opening session before 200 delegates yesterday afternoon. The fault, he said, lies in their insistence that valuations be made on a fair sales value which he charged was non-existent.

Andrew W. Stewart, city assessor of Erie, predicted that all municipal subdivisions in the state will soon be bankrupt unless state legislation governing assessments is changed at the next session of the legislature.

Fifteen Seek Titan Berths

Floor Squad At Westminster Prepares For Season Opener On December 16

MOSTLY FRESHMEN TO COMPRISE TEAM

(Special To The News)
NEW WILMINGTON, Dec. 3.—With nearly 15 men seeking starting positions Grover Washbaugh's Titan courtmen will taper off early season drills with a series of practice tilts beginning late this week.

Uncertain as to the ability of many of the fresh squadmen, Washbaugh will use the pre-schedule games as a measuring stick for a varsity which may or may not present an all-freshmen lineup.

Early indications point a starting five which will include veterans Mel Miller, New Brighton, and Tom Patton, West Middlesex, along with three first year men, most promising of which are Yellig, Spak and Wasik formerly of Pittsburgh's championship South high squad. Ridd, last season's Norwin high captain, will forward McKeesport's All-WPIAL forward Joseph and Frank Herra, Farrell high stars, Fox and May, Schenectady high, and Charles Miller, Johnstown sophomore.

Following games with New Castle Merchants, Youngstown Sheet & Tube, Buhl Club of Sharon and the Firestone five, the Titans will open their regular schedule when they meet Geneva on the home court, December 16.

City League Game Sunday

Ready For City Basketball League Game At Arena Sunday At 2 O'clock

The City Basketball league will go back into action Sunday at the Arena floor when the Gus Big Five will usher in its initial league battle by taking on the Len's team at two o'clock.

The Gus' Big Five is coached this year by Jack Lewellyn a veteran of several years on the hardwood court. Four members of the Gus' team were members of the championship Epworth M. E. team last year.

The Len's have a fast team under Coach Duende Ambrosia, and will try hard for a league win.

Monday night at eight o'clock the Gus' team will go to Westminster to scrimmage against the Titan varsity team.

AROUND CITY HALL

Civil service commission for city police will hold examinations Monday evening in city hall. Thirty-one persons have applied for the test. Those who pass the mental test will be given a physical examination. The civil service commission consists of Professor Frank Burton, Harry Dinsmore and Dr. James D. Crawford.

Two new Chevrolet white cars have arrived in the city and some of the worries of Police Chief Ralph A. Criswell are ended. During the past week or more the old automobiles worked poorly and it was decided not to expend a lot of money putting them in condition for police work.

Basketball Clinic At Lincoln-Garfield Floor Next Tuesday

Educational And Recreational Division Of W. P. A. Sponsoring Floor Clinic

A basketball clinic for the various teams in New Castle and Lawrence county will be held at the Lincoln-Garfield gym Tuesday evening at 8 o'clock under the sponsorship of the Educational and Recreational Division of the WPA of this city. Supervisors of the project will be Mrs. Agnes Howley and Frank Leonard.

Any team in the county is eligible to attend, independents, church league and city league. The objective is to clarify the rules of the game and interpret new rules. Various types of offense and defense will be demonstrated. Directors of the clinic will be Benjie Ciccone, Louis Dine and Mike Turco.

Each person attending the clinic will receive a copy of the alterations on the 1938-39 floor rules. The various styles of basketball used by the different teams in New Castle will be demonstrated.

Milk Fund Show Attracts Notice

Exchange Club's Committee Look Forward To Successful Night

FISTIC CALENDAR TO BE ATTRACTIVE

Committeemen in charge of the Exchange club's milk fund benefit boxing show December 12 in The Arena today were well pleased with the response which has greeted their efforts to provide needy children with milk and early indications point to it being a success.

The committee which is headed by Arthur Snow, has canvassed not only local businessmen but also other individuals, and they are aiding the Exchange club in their efforts to dispose of reservations.

The boxing show will be similar to that staged here for police pension fund purposes for several years at the Taggart stadium.

Good Boxing Bout
The Arena is one of the nicest places in which the Exchange club could have selected. It is large, capable of seating several thousands persons, and is well heated.

Insofar as the boxing end of the venture is concerned it will be one of the best shows that can be arranged. Only the most popular of the amateurs will be scheduled. Already Mike Rubin of this city and Dave Nemeth, 175 pound boxers, have been matched.

In addition to this bout, Jack Virgill of Butler will meet Jack Rainey of McKeesport at 160 pounds. Six more battles are being arranged and some of them will come from Ellwood City and other towns close to New Castle.

The Exchange club is being acquainted with every move by the supervisors, Ed Fritz and Tommy Leach, who will direct the fistic phase.

Reservations were placed in most of the business places and industrial plants yesterday.

Union Civics Play Tonight

There will be a City Basketball league game at the Arena floor tonight at six o'clock, the Union Civics meeting the Gersons.

It will be the first game for the Civics in the league. "Doc" Amerella is the coach of the Civics. Mike Kulich is coaching the Gersons.

Stock Market
Is SpiritlessNarrow Range In Trading
During Morning Hours
In MarketBy LESLIE GOULD
International News Service
Financial Writer

NEW YORK, Dec. 3.—The stock market was a spiritless affair today, as leaders backed and filled within an extremely narrow range throughout the two hours of trading.

Chrysler was up a shade in motors but General Motors slipped fractionally. U. S. Steel receded slightly in stocks as Bethlehem alternated between minor gains and losses. There were typical intra-group movements, with few showing a definite trend one way or the other.

American Can was an exception, dropping more than a point at one time. DuPont, meanwhile, gained close to a point on a limited turnover.

Commodities were almost uniformly lower, except for Chicago grains, which held close to previous closings. Cotton dropped 50 cents a bale on top of yesterday's loss of almost $1. Hides, rubber and cocoa were weak minor staples.

The bond list was as dull as the stock market. Price changes were narrow and of little significance, and trading was extremely slow.

News Briefs
From City Hall

Several city police officers are taking an advanced course in police training. It is given by Harold Pierce, department of public instruction. In Butler, Pierce formerly was a state police sergeant. Later he resigned to become police chief at Butler then was named to the state departmental post.

Finance Director James L. Fink and Controller S. L. Lockey spent yesterday and today in session with other finance officers of Pennsylvania municipalities at State college.

Although most municipalities the size of New Castle usually are swept by a petty crime epidemic at this season of the year this city, so far, fortunately, has escaped the ravages of those who would take articles which they do not own and commit other depredations not in keeping with law and order.

New Chevrolet, white (regency gray) cars for police use have arrived here. They will be placed in police service next week. The hoods are painted blue. While or regency gray colors affect the visibility of drivers, hence the innovation. Motor Mechanic Charles Colnot, and Police Chief Ralph Griswell inspected the cars today.

Police today received an odd complaint. It concerned the theft of a cue ball. McCoy alley attaches reported a cue ball was stolen sometime ago and another was stolen last night. Police were requested to investigate the thefts. Years ago a person who stole a cue ball, landed in Lawrence county court, and drew punishment.

For the first time in several weeks an auto theft was reported to police authorities today. Nathan Baskind, Darlington road, Pittsburgh, reported his Plymouth coach, Pennsylvania license 6925B, had been stolen from Wallace avenue and North Jefferson street, last night. Police of the city, county and state, are searching for the coach.

This is the time of year when Rex Hughes, city electrician and his assistant, John Jones, keep close to the municipal electric station. With weather apt to change at any time they must keep the police and fire alarm and traffic light systems as near perfect as possible. They must report and restore operations as soon as a system goes awry.

Judging from the police docket, persons are imbibing less of the beverage that intoxicates than formerly. Only a few over-imbibants have fallen into the long arm of the law during the past 48 hours. Usually police do not take into custody persons who are able to make their way home in safety.

H. H. Gilliland, 306 East Leasure avenue, reported to police today that two persons visited his residence yesterday. He said that after the persons, who were selling an article, left, a Wallham watch, worth $40, was missing. The report was given to city detectives to investigate.

Someone employed a brick to break a side window in the Cities Service station, North Mill street, last night, following which the place was robbed of $120, a flashlight and keys to the gasoline pumps. The report was referred to the city detectives to investigate.

Start Work On Pottery Road

Private Roadway Will Eliminate Dangerous Crossing At B. & O. Shops

WILL COMPLETE JOB IN JANUARY

Workers from the Tri-State Construction Company, Washington, Pa., have started work on a roadway from East Cherry street, near the bridge, to the Universal Sanitary Pottery company plant.

This road, when completed will enable employees and visitors to the pottery to drive right to the building without the present risk of crossing the many railroad tracks of the P. & L. E. and B. and O. railroads at the B. and O. shops.

The road, according to the contractor in charge of the task, will be 3,300 feet in length. This new stretch will join the present roadway to the pottery, just after it crosses the many tracks at the junction.

When completed, the road will be 12-foot wide, and will be a granulated slag surface road, with a heavy stone base.

The road will begin near the East Cherry street bridge, and will run along the Shenango river the entire way, to where it joins the present road. Plans have been made to have the road go under bridge.

In order to take care of the road at this point, and prevent high water from washing it away, the contractors plan to erect a high flood wall, similar to that recently constructed on the other side of the bridge by the WPA.

To care for a little stream that comes from the East Cherry street hillside, large sewer pipes arrived at the site Friday and they will be placed under the roadway.

According to the contractor in charge of the project, they expect to have the work completed within a month, and have the road in use sometime during the early part of January.

The present route to the pottery is a dangerous one. One must turn right from the West Pittsburgh road, at the B. & O. shops and go down over a steep hill. The automobile must then cross several rows of tracks, that are in daily use by trains, to get to the factory.

This roadbuilding task is under the sponsorship of both the B. & O. and the P. & L. E. railroads, in an effort to make traffic safer.

Heating System Breaks Down In Methodist Church

Activities Program Is Somewhat Curtailed Due To Condition In Church

If you are a member of the Mahoning Methodist church it would be wise to keep your coats and gloves as you report to your various classes Sunday.

It was reported today that the heating system in the church suffered a breakdown sometime Friday, and there will be but very little heat available Sunday. It is hoped, however, that some temporary measure may be established to provide heat for the services.

According to Rev. D. J. Blasdel, pastor of the church, activities in the building are being somewhat curtailed, due to the situation and lack of heat, in the building. Before the difficulty in the heating plant will be entirely remedied. Workmen are now busy at the task, but it will require several days to complete.

Sunday Novena At Morning Hour

Rev. Fr. Michael Hinnbusch, pastor of St. Margaret's church in the Seventh ward, announced today that the Novena, now being held at his church, will be held following the second mass Sunday morning.

The Novena, in honor of the Immaculate Conception, began last Wednesday night and will continue each night until December 8. Each of the services, except the Sunday service, are scheduled for the evening at 7:30 o'clock.

Willing Workers Plan For Dinner

Plans were announced today for the annual dinner event, for the Willing Workers of the Mahoningtown Presbyterian church.

This event, this year will be held on Thursday evening, December 8, beginning at 5:30 o'clock. The dinner will be served in the church dining room.

Mrs. Clarence Allen, is chairman for the dinner, and she and her committee are working hard on the details for the event.

METHODIST CHURCH
Services Sunday at the Mahoning Methodist church begin at 9:45 a. m. with Sunday school, under the direction of Superintendent Q. E. Davy.

Morning worship will begin at 11 o'clock, and Rev. D. J. Blasdel will officiate.

announced today that a communion service will be held.

Meeting of the Epworth League will be held at 6:45 o'clock in the church.

Evening service, beginning at 7:45 o'clock, will be in charge of Rev. Blasdel.

Local Women Are Invited To Sharon

Mabel Wilson Auxiliary has been invited to Sharon for a meeting with the Sharon group on Thursday, December 8, at 1 p. m. in the Moose Hall, 30 South Main street. Dinner will be served at 8 p. m. in the Baptist church. Mrs. E. M. Johnston of West Clayton street is taking the local reservations.

PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH

Services have been announced as follows for the Mahoningtown Presbyterian church on Sunday:

Sunday school at 9:45 o'clock, with Superintendent John T. Holliday in charge.

Morning worship will begin at 11 o'clock, with Rev. D. C. Schneckel preaching on the subject, "The Love Of God".

Junior Christian Endeavor meeting will be held at 2:30 o'clock.

Senior Christian Endeavor society will meet at 7 o'clock, followed at 7:45 o'clock by the evening service. Rev. Schneckel will preach on the subject, "God's Covenant With His People".

Winter Chases Summer November Statistics Show

High Temperature Is Followed By Snow And Cold Weather At End Of Month

November's weather provided decided contrasts, starting out like summer at the opening of the month and winding up with a blast of winter, which saw a total snowfall of almost seven and a half inches, and temperatures well below the freezing point. The higher temperatures during the fore part of the month resulted in an excess of almost four degrees per day over the normal mark being noted.

The mean maximum temperature was 57.7 degrees, the mean minimum 30.3 degrees and the mean or average, 44 degrees. The highest temperature was 81 degrees on November 7 and the lowest was 12 degrees on the 26th. The greatest daily range was 48 degrees on the 2nd.

The total precipitation was 3.27 inches, an excess of .92 inches over the normal of 2.35 inches. The greatest precipitation in 24 hours was .58 inches on the 18th. Days with .01 inches or more of precipitation were 14, days clear 14, partly cloudy 8, and cloudy 8. The total snowfall was 7.4 inches.

In 1937 November had a deficiency of one degree in the temperature and a deficiency of .63 inches in precipitation. The snowfall, however, was less than this year, 6.1 inches being reported.

The Human Side Of The News

(By EDWIN C. HILL)

Copyright 1938 King Features Syndicate, Inc.

The swiftly expanding popularity of professional football is the outstanding phenomenon of the world of sports. Crowds of 50,000 are common at the Sunday afternoon games in the big cities of the National Football League. And these huge assemblies see a brand of football played that cannot be found in any college stadium. Moreover, spectators at the pro games take five with excitement and enthusiasm, throw their hats in the air, hang on each others shoulders and cheer themselves hoarse over the daring, skillful resourceful play.

Pro teams like John Mara's New York Giants, George Marshall's Washington Redskins and Claude Lambeau's Green Bay Packers have won some of the most famous victories following that Notre Dame enjoys in the college world. Professional football is seriously challenging the college game, and for understandable reasons.

As the college football season wanes, no flagrant professionalism is in evidence, but many teams are still struggling to support alma maters in the style, to which has been accustomed. There is still a mortgage on the old stadium, looking back over this year's list of games, one finds the all-star schedule looming up bigger than ever—as it has been for the last two or three years.

That means that, to meet stiffening competition, the college must put on more and more main events. The crowds are working up an appetite for raw meat, and the old schedule of "practice games" simply doesn't get their money any more. There have been more top-bracket teams mixing over a longer period this year than in any other season.

As a result of all this, a player on a big college team is in for a much harder grind than he was subject to a few years ago. Never before have coaches sent in so many charity horses, broken ribs, strained ligaments, bad knees, broken arches and bruised muscles. As a case in point, Pittsburgh in a recent big game played a man with two broken ribs.

As to playing substitutes, there is first to be considered that they are essentially second string men and, what is more important, the crowds want the advertised name. Showmanship is quite as important in the Groves of Academe as it is on Broadway, and its costs about as much to ready a football classic as it does to put on a Broadway show. Hence, no lad with any spirit is going to hang back, just because he needs a new wooden leg or a pair of crutches.

While college sport has more or less chronic cashregister trouble, this has been a good year, owing to the Elysian Eastern fall. That string of sunny Saturdays, up to November 19, netted the college just about $6,000,000 more than the run-of-the-mill stretch of autumnal weather. They are whittling down the mortgages on the stadia quite a bit, but with all this the load of other college athletics carried by football becomes heavier, with only basketball and this to a limited degree, paying its own way.

The Carnegie Institute for the Advancement of Teaching will no doubt come through with its annual admonition and knuckie rapping about the football Moloch swallowing up the college and with equal certainty the process of ingestion will go right ahead. I've heard the complaint, man and boy, these many years. The elaborate scouting organizations, the card-indexing of an infant in Whatcheer, Iawo, who kicks his toy dog with unweaving vigor; the processing of prospects through fraternal lures and girl traps; the bait of scholarships and soft jobs—all this keeps on and doubtless will for a long time to come, in every college from old Spearfish to the Ivy League.

There is a strong off-stage movement for the support of Athletics from the endowment funds of each college. The college deans everywhere are said to be solidly behind it, but the alumni are still a bulwark, a bulkhead and a Maginot Line against change. They not only want their college to get out a winning team, but they believe that only by a winning team can it gain the necessary kudos for attracting and holding the best youngsters.

I am told, however, that undergraduates aren't running quite the football fever they used to; that football hero-worship is passing on the campus and that the average student body would be quite satisfied with intra-mural games, with no box office angle. In fact, in student publications there has been quite considerable agitation for this view.

Some persons think the rise of professional football will result in the long run, putting the college game at its sporting, rather than its commercial merits. There is hope in some quarters that pro football, gradually will draw off the professionally inclined of both players and public and leave the college game free to get organized on a less strenuous, hazardous and pecuniary basis.

Outlaw Strike Of 300 May Hit 5,000 Employees

Jobs Of Employees Of Three Nash-Kelvinator Plants In Wisconsin At Stake

(International News Service)

KENOSHA, Wis., Dec. 3.—The jobs of more than 5,000 Wisconsin employees of the Nash-Kelvinator Corporation were threatened today by an "outlaw strike" of 300 members of the CIO's United Automobile Workers Union.

The strikers, employed on the assembly line of the corporation's plant in Kenosha, quit work Thursday and demanded a wage increase from 91 cents to $1.00 an hour. Demand for the pay hike followed a statement by R. A. Develig, production manager, that work would be speeded up from 1800 to 2000 cars a week.

While officials of Nash-Kelvinator said the strike probably would force the complete shutdown, by Monday, of the corporation's plants in Racine and Milwaukee, as well as Kenosha, John Milliken, president of the Kenosha local of the union, said the strike had not been authorized.

"It is an outlaw strike," he asserted. Nash-Kelvinator employs more than 5,000 persons in its three Wisconsin factories. The management said that imporation of the Kenosha plant's assembly line would compel the shutdown of all three plants.

Although only the 300 assembly line workers struck, their action threw 3,850 other Kenosha and Milwaukee plant workers into idleness.

Milliken, meanwhile, said the U.A.W. was conducting an inquiry to fix responsibility for the work stoppage, which hit the plants when employment was at its highest peak in recent years.
